Issues injunction against city officials

Judge says no closed sessions

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

A temporary injunction was issued Thursday by a Wayne County Circuit Court judge restraining the mayor, city council and other elected officials of Romulus from holding closed meetings in violation of the Open Meetings Act.

The injunction was ordered by Judge Richard Dunn following a show cause hearing in a suit filed by Ed Rush, prominent Romulus florist.

Mayor William M. Oakley said he was "disappointed" over the judge's ruling because he would have liked to see the matter resolved once and for all.

"Not being a lawyer, I can't interpret the law. However there is still a difference of opinion," he noted.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, in commenting on the injunction, said, "The city does not hold closed meetings other than those provided for in the Open Meetings Act."

Folmar said the judge's ruling was "not significant" and that "the city tries to live under the law at all times."

Around Romulus City Hall, Rush is thought by some officials and employees to be a self-appointed watchdog of city government.

Rush filed the suit Sept. 26 charging that a meeting called for in a memorandum from Oakley Aug. 25 and held Aug. 31 discussed more subjects than the mayor's directive stated.

The florist said the meeting was called to discuss continued attempts by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) to union city employees. But, he charged, city water and sewer bond funds and the annual city audit also were talked about and were violations of the Open Meetings Act.

In addition, Rush's suit charged that the meeting was not posted in city hall 18 hours in advance of the actual session and constituted another violation of the Open Meetings Act.

His suit also accused the council of not taking a roll call vote to decide whether the meeting should be closed or open as required in the act.

Rush's suit further charged that defendants engaged in a discussion at the end of the meeting which had to do with erasing the tape recorded minutes, which was alleged as another violation of the Open Meetings Act.

His suit also asked that the tape recording of the Aug. 31 meeting be made available to him.

Judge Dunn ordered that the defendants stop the holding of any closed meetings except those which were approved by a two-thirds vote of council and which were within the provisions permitted under the Open Meetings Act, according to Rush.

The judge also directed that the defendants be enjoined from temporarily or permanently erasing the tape recording of the Aug. 31 session and that the tape be made available to Rush.

Rush told the Roman Friday that he had been given a tape of the Aug.

31 meeting by Folmar, but that conversation on the tape was garbled and that the tape was of poor quality.

A few days after the Aug. 31 session, on Sept. 5, Rush said he had made his own tape recording of part of the taped minutes, but had been stopped from finishing the recording by Oakley and Treasurer Helen Gallien.

Rule suicide for girl, 17

A 17-year-old Huron Township girl, whose body was found last week hanging by a bedsheet from a chain link fence at the rear of her trailer home, has been ruled a suicide.

The Wayne County Medical Examiner's office informed the Huron Township Police Department that Vicki Zambeck had died by her own hand.

The teenage girl's body was found about 11:30 a.m. Tuesday by a gas meter reader.

Police Chief Joe Carney said a cloth bedsheet was tied around her neck and was attached to the top of a fence at the rear of her mother and stepfather's trailer, 22060 La Fons, in the Chateau Estates mobile home trailer park.

The chief said her body was fully dressed and that the dead girl was wearing a brown leather coat, blue jeans and a blouse. Death was attributed to "cerebral anoxia" or strangling, he said.

Vicki, who lived with her mother and stepfather, Edward Badger, was last seen by her mother about 10 p.m. on the day before her body was discovered, Carney reported.

He said she had quit high school last year and lived in the trailer with her parents, three sisters and two brothers.

'Sloppy' minutes rapped by Rush

"Sloppy" was the way that Ed Rush, Romulus florist, described the way in which minutes have and are being taken at some public city meetings.

Rush, who is suing the city and its officials over an alleged closed city council meeting Aug. 31, said the printed minutes were grossly in error.

"The minutes show all seven members present for the roll call vote, but Mary Carter was not at the meeting. Also, when the vote was taken by council to adjourn, again the minutes showed all seven members voting aye."

"But, Beverly McAnally left the meeting before the vote. That made two council members absent and only five members actually voted to adjourn," Rush declared.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar, whose name appears at the bottom of the page of minutes as certifying them to be "a true copy," was asked about the matter.

"We prepare two to three sets of minutes a week and we turn them out in a mechanical fashion," he said.

He admitted that the errors cited by Rush were "a simple oversight."

Questioned further, Folmar said he was not present at the meeting himself. He said he checked into the matter and that he was "reasonably sure" Mrs. Carter was not present at the Aug. 31 session.

"It's true that Mrs. McAnally left the meeting early," he said.

Rush commented, "If they admit to making mistakes on that meeting, how many more are in error?"

He said one council member told him that council was "always correcting" minutes of past sessions.

Rush said it was even more important for minutes of closed meetings to be accurate.

"Because closed meetings would not have to be certified and no one from the outside public would see them, more attention would have to be paid to see that those minutes are correct," he said.

Gordonier to close in '79; Jr. highs to shuffle pupils

Gordonier Elementary School will be closed next year and a reshuffling of students made under one of two alternate plans at North and South junior high schools in Romulus.

The above recommendations were made to and accepted by the Romulus Board of Education last week by a subcommittee composed of trustees Wayne Avery, president; Shirley Lombardi, secretary; and Michael Woods, treasurer.

Supt. James Garfield said Gordonier will be closed prior to the start of the 1979-80 school year and that students will be shifted between North and South junior highs to better utilize existing facilities at both buildings.

The two plans submitted by the subcommittee are:

1) To equally balance the seventh, eighth and ninth grades at both schools, or

2) To install sixth and seventh grade students at South Jr. High, and eighth and ninth grade students at North Jr. High.

Garfield said he will present a follow up report to the board at a later date with recommendations for initial planning for both programs.

Unofficial figures from the fourth Friday in October head count showed Gordonier with 237 students, North Jr. High with 941, and South Jr. High with 460, Garfield said.

In other action, the board expressed its concern for the rowdy behavior of some students in grades 7-12 on board school buses.

The board directed Garfield to prepare a program which would require students in those grades to wear identification badges. The program would help to pinpoint those students responsible for trouble on buses.

The superintendent said he was not sure how long it would take to implement the ID program, which he explained will be done with school equipment and facilities.

Board members granted tentative approval to a request from the Romulus Athletic Booster Club to pursue plans to light the Romulus Sr. High School athletic field.

Garfield said the club would hold fund-raising projects to purchase lights and had set start of next school year as its target date.

Garfield told the board that a new business manager will be hired in the near future. He explained that the 26 applicants for the vacant position had been narrowed down to 10 and is now in the second phase.

Public meeting Oct. 21

Tax reforms to be aired

The 'Tax Revolt' is here! But what is it?

That question is being asked with more frequency as November's general election draws near.

Described as a 'bed sheet', the ballot greeting voters next month will contain not only candidates for office, but upwards of 11 ballot propositions. Voters will be deciding on the merits of raising the drinking age, parole reform, collective bargaining for State Police Troopers and a constitutional convention, among others. But the proposals attracting the most interest until now are the three proposals dealing with tax reform.

In the wake of California's approval of Proposition 13, tax reform has become an attractive topic and cause. Proponents have touted the proposals as the means to bring government back into line, while opponents charge that the proposals will bring government to its knees.

Because of the importance of the issue of tax reform and the almost universal confusion surrounding the three tax proposals, Associated Newspapers has arranged for the authors of the Three proposals to meet with the public Saturday, Oct. 21, in Westland and discuss the goals and implications of their plans.

Robert Tisch, author of the Tisch tax cutting amendment, Richard Headlee, chairman of the tax limitation group which authored the tax limitation amendment, and Robert Lytle, author of the voucher plan, will join together to discuss their proposals and the relative merit of the others.

The meeting will be held at the Melvin F. Bailey Recreation Center, located directly behind the Westland City Hall, at 36651 Ford Road, Westland.

Many concerned area officials will be in attendance to question the authors. The public is welcomed, and light refreshments will be provided for a nominal charge by Westland's senior citizens.

The meeting will begin at 6 p.m. and run until about 11 p.m.

Westland City Hall is located on Ford Road between Newburg and Wayne Roads.

Police honor Romulus citizen

Ed Rush of Romulus (center) recently was given a meritorious conduct award by the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for coming to the aid of a young hitchhiker being sexually assaulted in a car on a lightly-traveled road in Romulus. Rush is shown being congratulated by Det. Rodney J. Denson, while Under-Sheriff Loren Pittman looks on. As Rush was driving on Henry Ruff Road south of Ecorse Road last Aug. 30, a young woman jumped from a parked car and ran toward him. Discovering that she was the victim of a sexual assault, Rush obtained the license number of the car, took the woman to his place of business and called the sheriff's department. The man accosting the woman was arrested a short time later thanks to the assistance given by Rush.

High-rise critics demand overseer

A newly-formed citizens group, upset over lack of information on the proposed new senior citizens high-rise building, has asked the city to appoint a watchdog to oversee the project and to supply information to the mayor, council and community.

The request was contained in a letter handed in the city council at its session last week (Tuesday) by the Citizens Against Exploitation Committee (CAE).

The new group is composed of citizens, many of whom live near the proposed site of the high-rise, who are protesting its construction for a number of reasons.

Mayor William M. Oakley spoke to the group at the council meeting and explained why he did not feel a formal hearing should be granted to the CAE at this time. At the previous council meeting, council had told the group it would give them a date for a special hearing on the high-rise.

After the letter was given to council by its spokesperson, Mrs. Dianna M. Burek, council unanimously agreed to listen to CAE before a rezoning hearing is set on the high-rise.

Also, at the council session Oct. 3, CAE handed a position paper to council members with a lengthy list of what they felt to be unanswered questions on the high-rise.

The paper expressed the group's concern over failure of Leo Sklar, the city's agent on senior housing, to adequately provide information on many aspects of the proposed high-rise. Sklar is also the agent for North Cranbrook Associates, developers of the high-rise project and buyers of the old Romulus Elementary School on whose grounds the building will be built.

The letter given to council, and also addressed to the mayor, read: "The Citizens Against Exploitation Committee is not familiar with the timetable nor the steps that North Cranbrook Associates have to follow before a rezoning hearing can be convened."

"Therefore, we request that the council set the requested formal hearing date on the high-rise issue no later than two weeks before the rezoning hearing or sooner if and when the council can obtain full answers to all of our questions and grant us the assurances we desire."

"We realize that it may be a matter of months before all information concerning this project is submitted in total. Therefore, during this interim, we urgently recommend that the council and/or mayor appoint a duly elected, unbiased representative of the people to

Civil Service for Romulus looms in '79

Employees at the Romulus City Hall next year could find themselves under a new Civil Service system.

City Council last week (Tuesday) unanimously approved a resolution made by Councilman James Raspberry to place the proposal on the general election ballot in 1979.

Clerk Leonard J. Folmar said Civil Service classification for Romulus city employees went down to defeat 744-615 at the hands of voters in June of 1971. "Our city charter stipulates that if the Civil Service system fails on its first time on the ballot that it must be placed on the ballot two more times," the clerk explained.

Under Civil Service, city employees would be assigned more specific job classifications and would have to pass qualifying examinations for entrance to new job positions and promotion to higher job classifications, the clerk said.

Theoretically, Civil Service would eliminate the practice of filling jobs through political patronage, although past experience in some cases has not always shown this to be true.

Michigan Avenue paving resumes, averting lawsuit

By JIM BRADLEY

ANP Staff Writer

Last-minute action in starting to pave Michigan Avenue last week averted a lawsuit by the City of Inkster.

Irate city officials, who claim they were misled by the State Highway Dept. and Carlo Construction Co., are furious over the way they have been treated.

"I'm most disturbed that the State Highway officials and other company officials can make promises that they apparently didn't intend to keep," said City Manager Wally Arrowsmith.

Arrowsmith was fuming at the "run-around" that he and other city officials got from the state, he said.

"We were given promises by the State Highway Department concerning the paving schedule of Michigan Ave. We sat here almost a month, believing the state was keeping its word in letting out bids to acquire cement from another source," Arrowsmith said.

Because of a shortage of cement, the state promised city officials they would let out bids on Oct. 5 to buy 30,000 tons. However, when Inkster city officials met with State Highway officials October 5th, they were told the state had "scrapped that plan."

"We weren't even told they weren't following through on their promise. Here we patiently wait three weeks, fully believing the state is keeping its promise to acquire the hard-to-get cement," Arrowsmith said.

Then the state told Inkster officials, including Arrowsmith and Mayor Terrel LeCesne that they had dropped plans to let out bids Oct. 5 for cement.

Terrel LeCesne

That caused the feathers to hit the fan.

LeCesne got so furious that he couldn't see straight. He and other city officials immediately took steps to sue the State Highway Department and the Carlo Construction Co., which the state contracted to pave Michigan Ave.

"Councilman James Collieran, myself and the city manager had intensive talks with the contractor, Mr. John Carlo, his construction manager and state officials," LeCesne explained.

LeCesne and the others met with Gerald McCarthy, deputy director of construction for the State Highway Dept. "We were determinedly trying to find out if the bids had been let to purchase the cement to pave Michigan Ave.," LeCesne pointed out.

"McCarthy said those plans had been scrapped because he received a commitment from some other source and he said it wasn't necessary to go to the extreme of ordering extra cement."

"We've been in constant communication since last Thursday and even State Sen. David Plawewski's office has been involved," LeCesne said.

"I told them if I saw evidence of them working Wednesday morning (yesterday), that I would accept that."

Wally Arrowsmith and Ed Taylor, director of public services, took separate trips down Michigan Ave. yesterday morning and reported there was definite evidence of progress.

Arrowsmith said he was told that Carlo Co. will have at least 500 tons of cement a day, beginning Nov. 5, to pave Michigan Ave. Medusa Cement Co. of Ohio has promised to supply that much to Carlo Co. each day to keep the project going full-speed.

Arrowsmith is extremely upset with the State Highway Dept. "The Michigan Avenue paving project was very poorly planned by the State Highway Department," he said yesterday.

"They shouldn't have let them tear up the entire distance of Michigan Avenue if they weren't going to try to finish the job as soon as they could."

"We all know there are times when hold-ups occur, but they changed plans without even having the courtesy to tell us. We feel that is deception on their part."

Actually, Carlo Const. Co. has 235 working days to finish the paving project. That means, technically, that they have until August of next year to complete the job.

However, Arrowsmith said

Inkster officials were promised by the State Highway Dept. that the state would let Carlo Construction

Co. pave into December. They need special permission from the state for this, and Alex Ubaniak, district construction engineer for the State Highway Dept., said they would get that permission.

Edison has new program

The Detroit Edison Co. has launched a new program for the benefit of its residential customers.

The program, called the Double Notice Protection Plan, makes it possible for the company's residential customers to have a duplicate collection shut-off notice sent to a designated third party — a relative friend, clergy, community or social service agency.

The new Double Notice Protection Plan is available to all Detroit Edison residential customers but is aimed primarily at those who would be most adversely affected by disconnection of their electric service — the elderly, the sick, shut-ins or people who are away from their homes for extended periods.

The company is now including leaflets describing the new plan with all urgent collection notices sent to its residential customers.

Under the plan, the designated third party is not obligated to pay the overdue bill or bills, but could remind the customer of the impending electric service shut off. The designated party also could advise Detroit Edison of special situations which would make electric service shut off inadvisable.

High-rise critics demand an overseer

oversee this project on behalf of the city and its citizens, and to serve as a source of primary information for council, mayor and all of the citizens of Romulus."

The CAE told the Roman that it would like to make the following points clear:

"We are not against senior low-cost housing in Romulus per se, but as reasonable citizens we demand to know all of the facts relating to any proposed project within the city that will directly or indirectly affect our homes, families neighborhoods, taxes, property assessment, water and sewer bills, and our general well-being.

"We feel the taxpayer must know what is going on before a rezoning hearing so that he or she can meaningfully address issues at said meeting.

"We feel that the council and mayor will be in a position to answer our questions and give us assurances at a formal hearing before a rezoning hearing, because Mr. Sklar is not only the city's agent on senior housing, but also the agent for North Cranbrook Associates, the developer.

"We can appreciate the council and mayor's concern regarding the proposed new jet runway. Clerk Leonard Folmar was quoted in the 10-11-78 issue of the Romulus Roman as saying, "The city wants to find out what the airport plans are so it can be in a position to know what to do." We want to find out what the developers plans are in regard to the proposed high-rise site so we can be in a position to know what to do."

Among items which the CAE is concerned about is that the proposed nine-story high-rise is taller than the city's seven-story fire department ladder and that the building could possibly house low-income families who are not senior citizens.

Youth convicted in tire slashings

Chester Stapleton, 17, of Romulus, was sentenced to 15 months to five years in prison on a charge growing out of tire slashings several months ago in the Meadows Subdivision in Romulus.

Stapleton was sentenced last week (Wednesday) in the Romulus 34th District Court on the charge of attempted malicious destruction of property over $100, according to Det. Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department.

Several juveniles also were arrested for the tire slashings which amounted to thousands of dollars, but their names were withheld as required by state law.

Lindberg said the case has taken a strange twist and that at least one family living near Stapleton will be brought in and charged in connection with the tire slashings.

He said evidence obtained showed that the family had sold items from their home to some of those involved in neighborhood burglaries and then claimed them as stolen to their insurance company.

Seniors set potluck

Romulus Senior Citizens Club No. 1 will hold a potluck dinner at the drop-in center on Halloween Day, Tuesday, Oct. 31 instead of on Oct. 24 as originally announced.

Those attending will come dressed in masquerade costumes in keeping with the Halloween spirit. Prizes will be awarded for various categories of costumes and for winners of special games.

A dinner from the local McDonald's Restaurant will replace the usual potluck format and seniors will order their meals from a menu provided by the restaurant.

Music will be provided for those members who wish to dance.

A bakesale held recently by the club Oct. 13 at the Manufacturers

National Bank in downtown Romulus donated proceeds to the Elaine Rishel medical fund trust. The 11-year-old local student recently underwent a kidney transplant and donations are being made by local citizens and groups to help pay her medical expenses.

Recently, Vince Parratta, club president, and a group of members journeyed to Sarasota, Fla. and Nashville, Tenn. for a two-week vacation. Members made the trip in a van driven by Wilma Pomroy, who planned the vacation.

Several club members attended the recent groundbreaking ceremony for the new addition to the drop-in center scheduled for construction in the near future.

Vandals hit plant

An estimated $15,500 in damages was inflicted on 134 vehicles at the Environ plant, 36639 Northline Rd., in Romulus last Wednesday.

Det. Ed Lindberg of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department said tires were cut, windshields smashed and other damage inflicted to the firm's vehicles. The incident was not reported to the sheriff's office until Friday, he said.

Investigation disclosed that Environ employees have been on strike. No connection between striking pickets and the damages to vehicles has been made, Lindberg said.

Huron Dr. paving set

Huron River Drive will be resurfaced from Hannan Road to Pennsylvania Road in the city of Romulus.

This resurfacing is being done with funds from the Federal Aid-Urban Program, which will finance 70 percent of the costs, while the city will pay the other 30 percent.

The estimated cost of the project will be approximately $317,400. This will include resurfacing, storm drainage, three foot bituminous shoulders and intermittent widening for turning movements at intersections.

Contractor for the project is Cunningham-Gooding of Ypsilanti. Preliminary work has already begun and actual resurfacing should begin within the next week. Estimated completion date is Nov. 1, 1978.

Mayor William M. Oakley (center) last week signs over 13½ acres of city-owned land to Romulus North Little League, an organization which plans to develop a $250,000 hardball baseball complex on the north side of the Henry Ruff-Beverly park over the next 10 years. Witnessing signing in front row (left to right) are: Mrs. Gerry Weslin, vice president; and Jack Moores, president.

Donations to pay cost

Huge baseball complex is eyed for Romulus

The city of Romulus last week leased 13 acres of land it owns to a private organization for 10 years at a cost of $1 per year.

The agreement by the city to accept $10 for that period of time is expected to pave the way for a $250,000 hardball baseball complex in the city that could be the proving ground for a future Babe Ruth or Mickey Mantle.

Developers of the 10-year project is the Romulus North Little League which will build the hardball complex on the north side of the present Henry-Ruff-Beverly Park.

Its president, Jack Moores, hopes to build the baseball complex in two five-year phases, with funds from private contributions ranging from $10 to $5,000 each.

North Little League will soon distribute by mail and in person a brochure entitled "Grand Slam Building Club". Its members will be composed of contributors whose names will be shown on a giant billboard put up and co-sponsored by the Coca-Cola Co.

Moores said the first five years of the project will develop five baseball diamonds and fields, dugouts, double-deck scorekeeper's booth, fencing for all five fields, backstops for the fields, an electronic scoreboard and a centrally-located concession stand.

"The second five years will be devoted to installing equipment to light all five baseball fields," he explained.

Moores said North Little League expects to have 500 Romulus boys and girls from eight to 18 years of age competing on four different levels.

In addition to private donations, the league's mainstay in fund raising will be the weekly Bingo game at 10:30 a.m. each Thursday at the Progressive Hall in Romulus.

"I'm not politically motivated, but I believe in giving credit where credit is due," Moores commented. "Without the help and assistance of Mayor Oakley and the city council, we would have had a hard time. They deserve a lot of credit."

He said council gave a unanimous vote on the leasing of the ground for the complex and that the mayor put the city's staff at the league's disposal in helping the organization get the land.

Contributions to the North little league baseball project will be made under eight different classifications with baseball-oriented names given donors who automatically become members of the Grand Slam Building Club as follows:

- 1) $10 donation - "On deck" member who will receive an engraved felt pen signifying that ranking;
- 2) $25 donation - "At bat" member who will receive a Paper Mate engraved pen and pencil set;
- 3) $50 donation - "Single" member who will receive an engraved mounted baseball;
- 4) $75 donation - "Double" member who will receive an engraved paper weight;
- 5) $100 donation - "Triple" member who will receive an engraved wall plaque;
- 6) $500 donation - "Home run" member who will have his name inscribed on one of the dugouts;
- 7) $1,000 donation - "Grand slam" member who will have his name on the electronic scoreboard and on the double deck scorekeeper's booth;
- 8) $5,000 donation - "Executive grand slam" member who will have one of the five baseball fields named after them and have their names inscribed on the backstops at the field and on the fences.

"We hope to have state and regional baseball tournaments here in the near future with as many as 3,000 spectators present to see the games," Moores said.

In addition, he pointed out, all contributors will have their names inscribed on the giant Coca-Cola billboard, regardless of the amount of money donated.

If everything works out as Moores anticipates, that paltry $10 received by the city of Romulus for its leased land will pay off big dividends for the city's youngsters.

New body to aid area

Topping the action taken by trustees at last week's Sumpter Township Board meeting was the approval on a tentative basis of Henry Redman, township manager, as director of the newly-formed Southwestern Wayne County Consortium.

The new consortium, made possible by a $56,000 federal grant recently received by Sumpter Township, would include Van Buren Township, Huron Township, Belleville and Romulus, in addition to Sumpter.

One of the main functions of the consortium would be to coordinate grant applications of the member communities on a regional basis. According to Redman, it would make it easier to obtain grants in this way.

He said the consortium would work on area problems which affect one or more of the member communities.

Redman explained that he would have to go to member communities to ensure their participation in the project and to confirm his management of the body.

"The consortium is much like building a factory. That's where we are now. Later, we would come up with the finished products," he explained.

Once the organization got off the ground, he said it would utilize the expertise of technical personnel available in each member community.

In other action, the board approved the receipt of $600,000 from the Farmers Home Administration in Lansing to supplement the $1.9 million the organization has already advanced the township in a loan-grant package for the Phase IV water line extension project.

Phase IV will construct 15 miles of water line extensions throughout the township and follows on the heels of Phase III with its 15 miles of water line extensions.

Also accepted by the Sumpter board was a $15,270 special needs program grant. Of the total, $1,000 will go toward the township's new fire station and $14,270 towards purchase of a new fire truck.

Prospects for an 80-acre park for Sumpter Township took another step forward with the board approval of borrowing $32,500 from revenue sharing funds to pay for the park site.

The township will be reimbursed for that amount by the state Department of Natural Resources.

The park site is located at Sherwood and Wear roads and contains a lake. Presently, Sumpter has only one park, Park No. 1 at Sumpter and Wear roads.

Fearing that in the final lap Canton Township would over-compromise to the business community on the sign ordinance, citizens saw fit to vocalize objections. Both at the Planning Commission and the township board levels.

But until the township board meeting did the board realize that, whether or not the ordinance should be given approval, they had failed to take a very important procedural step.

A Canton resident brought to their attention that the Wayne County Planning Commission might, indeed, require review of the ordinance before the township could act on it.

Confirming the citizen's point of order, former supervisor Robert Greenstein said in past incidences the board has forwarded the ordinance to the county for review.

The tabling to the county, was in effect, a maneuver by the citizens in the audience to halt a possible "rush-order" move by the board to approve an ordinance that many feel was overly compromising to the business community.

Greenstein, a candidate for trustee, said the board was acting in a highly unusual manner by placing the item on their Tuesday board agenda prior to the board having any knowledge of if the Planning Commission had approved the ordinance the night before.

"I can't conceive of something this important being rushed through like this. No one understands it. I don't, and I'm an attorney," Greenstein said.

He added that the item could affect the future look and atmosphere of the township and considering that the ordinance has been significantly altered without additional study, it should not be acted upon.

Other citizens noted that the size, amount, and length of time permitted for sign erection to be allowed in the ordinance was relaxed when compared to the original Sign and Berm Committee's recommendation. That committee was comprised of residents and business people.

Since their suggestions and recommendations were submitted vast alterations have occurred. One resident said it has been passed from hand-to-hand "like a box of popcorn" without ever being returned to the original committee for their review.

At the Planning Commission level Monday night Commissioners Brian Schwall and Joyce Willis both voted to table the matter, but were in the minority.

Schwall said the compromising was more in favor of business interests than the citizens.

Since the ordinance has hit the desks of Supervisor Harold Stein, and other board officials, many changes in sign size and placement have taken place.

Free-standing, ground signs are larger and will be permitted in commercial areas. Today they are banned from the township, unless they fall under the classification of being non-conforming — in essence, the signs having been erected prior to the current ordinance adoption are permitted to stand.

Billboards would be permitted in the new ordinance, if passed.

Political signs in all districts, including the presently forbidden commercial, industrial, and agricultural districts, would be allowed. And that news did not appeal to residents in attendance.

Carol Bodenmiller, candidate for trustee, did a brief comparison of the Sign and Berm Committee's compromise suggestions and what the administration has done with the ordinance since that time.

She said under commercial — 1 zoning in the original report, 10-foot signs maximum were allowed. With the new version 15-foot high signs would be permitted.

In commercial-2 and 3 zones 32-square foot signs were permitted under the original code, but the new draft the board is considering, allows for 50-square foot signs. The height was increased from 6 feet to 15 feet.

"I don't know who's done this to the ordinance, but I think that when you have that much of a variance from the original compromise recommendation, the township should seriously consider studying this document," Mrs. Bodenmiller suggested.

While the various representatives of the business community urged the board to take action on the matter and bring the issue to an end, residents, for the most part, pleaded for further study.

The county's review of the document, coupled with the fact that the township is mandated by law to publish the latest version of the ordinance, postponement until after the November election is likely, if not inevitable.

WSU hosts Manuscript Day

Aspiring young high school authors will have an opportunity to test their writing skills in the third annual Manuscript Day competition, sponsored by the Wayne State University English Department.

Competition is open to junior and senior students in all Michigan high schools — public, parochial and private. Each school may submit up to five manuscripts.

Rules of the competition call for students to submit manuscripts through their high school English departments. Prose entries must be between one and 10 pages; verse, between 25 and 50 lines. All works are eligible unless they already have earned recognition outside the writer's high school. WSU faculty members will serve on the panel of judges.

The deadline for entries is Oct. 30. Awards will be presented on Manuscript Day, Nov. 30, an all-day event to be held on the WSU campus.

A total of 70 finalists will be selected in the competition. Each will receive a Certificate of Recognition along with an invitation to spend the day on the WSU campus, meeting faculty members and students.

Top prizes in the competition will be two merit scholarships, worth $1,000 per year and renewable in all four years of study at WSU. Other prizes will include $500 and $1,000 scholarships.

Further information may be obtained by calling Professor Brad Field or Professor John Bassett of the WSU English Department at 577-2450.

by Doug Brown

Opera is a production of a story that is presented entirely in music. There are very few parts that are just spoken. Musicals, on the other hand, are a combination of spoken words and songs that fit into the action. The newest trend is rock opera. It combines rock music, or what is usually called pop music, with an opera style. Opera is usually thought of as being classical rather than pop. Well, that is all changing. Jesus Christ Superstar, Hair, and Tommy are the best known examples of rock operas. They open a whole new world of music.

Editorial opinions

Summer of democratic action

With the election of '78 now winding up, it might be said with some accuracy that the issue of tax reform has far and away led all others in next November's balloting.

Today's influx of tax-related ballot proposals had its beginnings in 1976, and the first was then called Proposal 'C'.

Following defeat by voters of that measure, the group calling itself Taxpayers United for Tax Limitation, regrouped its forces for the next round.

Early in 1978, Taxpayers United named Richard Headlee honorary chairman for the renewed drive to gain approval of the state-wide limit on government spending.

With its well-oiled public relations team, Taxpayers United began circulating initiative petitions to place the question on November's ballot.

While the drive was well organized and never in danger of faltering, the passage in June of California's Proposition 13, brought an avalanche of support for tax reform in Michigan.

During the same period of time that Taxpayers United was making their push for petition signatures, Mr. Robert Lytle, owner of a Michigan manufacturing firm and publishing company, organized a drive to collect signatures to have his 'Voucher Plan' for financing education placed on the ballot.

Lytle's organization, like Headlee's, benefited from the aftershock of Proposition 13.

A dark horse in the race to place tax reform on the Michigan ballot was Robert Tisch of Lainsburg, Michigan.

Tisch, boasting the support of Jarvis Gann of California, had met with little early success in his efforts to gain wide support for his tax-cutting ballot proposal.

It was not until the California voters overwhelmingly approved the 7-billion tax-cutting measure that Tisch was finally able to gain the attention of the media.

With that attention, and the local visits by Howard Jarvis, the Tisch petition drive gained momentum, winding up with an almost unbelievable last minute surge of support.

With the filing of the petitions with the Michigan Secretary of State's office, a new drama unfolded.

Initially, the Tisch campaign was charged with violating provisions of Michigan's law relating to non-profit organizations. While that charge apparently represented no threat to certification of the signatures, many in the Tisch camp and others outside saw the state action as bureaucratic interference with the democratic process.

With that matter resolved, the question of certification itself arose with the decision by state officials to throw out their first sampling of signatures when their procedures were challenged by the Tisch supporters.

In retrospect, it appears that the state board of canvassers was ready to deny both Tisch, and Lytle of the Voucher Plan, a spot on the ballot. But when workers for both proposals presented proof of errors in the state's system, the decision was reconsidered and the Tisch plan was certified.

Robert Lytle's Voucher Plan, much like the Tisch proposal, met with little early state-wide voter support. But again, with the approval of Proposition 13 in California, the voucher proposal benefitted from a surge of citizen backing.

It has been estimated that this year's 11 ballot proposals have attracted active support from more than two million Michigan residents. The petitions themselves for each of the 11 proposals to be on November's ballot, if stacked 100-to-the-inch, would make a pile more than 143 feet high and would represent the signatures of more than 3,400,000 Michigan citizens.

In the final analysis, whether the proposals are of value or not, it must be said that the spirit of the Michigan voter is best not underestimated.

We think that the message has been sent.

It really matters little what the outcome of November's voting will be. Michigan residents have made their voices heard, in spite of special interest and deaf legislators.

We salute the men and women who have exercised their right to petition their government.

As long as those people remain, Michigan will stay on a steady course.

Seniors Housing is overdue

Richard F. Cambell, President
"We the People"

For years the City of Romulus and its senior citizens have pursued a common goal, one which would pay tribute to the founders of our community, through 'Senior Citizen Housing.'

There is an undeniable necessity for housing to meet the needs of the citizens who have developed and built the community in which they now live and in which they choose to continue living.

The goal may finally be reached as the city-appointed agent for Senior Citizen housing, Mr. Leo Sklar, has found properties which meet the State and Federal requirements.

After extensive studies, the City of Romulus acknowledges that there are no properties other than the downtown site, which meet these requirements. Those requirements are: A bank, a drug store, and a grocery store within walking distance of the Senior Citizen Housing Complex. This general location also offers additional advantages of readily available personal services, such as those of dentist, doctor, lawyer, barber, beautician and cleric. With all these positive pieces falling into place, Mr. Sklar and the city are doing everything possible to get State and Federal approval so that this project can actually get off the ground.

It is beyond my comprehension how anyone, because of their own personal fears, can object to this type of housing in our community.

Not only would this Senior Citizen Housing Complex upgrade the area, but it would bring a long-needed revitalization to the downtown sector of the city. It would give the businessmen an incentive to improve the appearances of their buildings and provide a larger variety of goods for shoppers. This would all be done at no cost to the taxpayers. In no way would it take away or drastically change the residential atmosphere of this area of Romulus.

As explained by Mr. Sklar, this housing complex would have a built-in security system, and a well-lighted parking area. It would be beautifully landscaped. As to fire protection, each unit would be equipped with fire alarms and fire walls that would contain a fire in the individual apartment in which it might start. This renovated building would also be equipped with a sprinkler system and fire escape routes throughout the entire building. Each apartment would feature a call system that notifies the main office of the complex in case of emergency.

Mr. Sklar has attended two "We the People" meetings and has attempted to answer any questions asked of him. He has done everything possible to alleviate the fears that citizens have expressed, even to the extent of inviting the general public to view other Senior Citizen Housing Complexes that were built by the proposed Romulus site developers, North Cranbrook Associates.

I have taken the opportunity to visit three housing complexes in this area that were built by North Cranbrook Associates. There are no parking or traffic flow problems, and the atmosphere is peaceful and dignified.

Will the city of Romulus finally bring the long-anticipated goal of Senior Citizen Housing to our community or will it be destroyed by the unfounded fears and misleading allegations of those few residents who do not want to be bothered with "the Seniors"??

The games we play

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

My long reprieve from the rigors of senior proms, homecoming dances and 'that first date' is now over.

As the father of three sons who have, it seems, become instant teenagers, I have concluded that I will now be forced to re-live the traumatic years of my youth.

I long ago determined that I wouldn't care to go through all of that again, and to make matters even worse, going through it this time will provide even fewer rewards from my vantage point as an observer.

While it doesn't seem possible, my wife's babies are now undergoing the painfully slow ordeal of growing up.

Two-years-ago, oldest son Dennis, entered the second finest high school in the state, John Glenn (The first, of course, is Fordson High in Dearborn).

With his entry into the high school scene, came the dramatic transformation from youth to young man.

This year, second son Mark joined Dennis at Glenn. Another transformation from the marble pit to football stadium. Also this year, third son Scott was elevated to the lofty status of a seventh grader.

Dennis, the 16-year-old, has found employment to help satisfy the insatiable appetite of his recently acquired '72 Vega Fast-Back. His 10-speed now sits forlornly at the rear of the garage, yearning I'm sure, for the good-old-days.

In place of his past flirtation with that shiny yellow chromed wheel bike, he now devotes his energies to flirting with a friend named Donna.

Mark, the 15-year-old, has long realized that girls make better company than boys, unless of course you're on a football or baseball field. Unfortunately, he does not as yet have the resources to support his new habit so he spends a great deal of time on the gridiron.

His extremely short memory is only offset by his occasional broad grin when things go right for him, which does not occur frequently, at least around the house.

Scott, the 12-year-old, has managed to maintain his priorities. He still rates girls only after baseball-hotdogs-apple pie-and milky ways. But like his older brothers, he has become very much aware of 'rock' and football.

Well, last week was Homecoming for John Glenn.

Dennis and Mark had to make the game which witnessed their team losing a thriller to North Farmington. Scott joined us for the trip to the stadium.

On Saturday night, Dennis escorted his friend Donna to the homecoming dance, while Mark, short of funds, played football in the backyard with friends.

On Sunday, Scott decided that he should attend his football team's homecoming game.

By now, I have become accustomed to the struggles between high school teams on the field of honor, but the sight of 'munchkins' from the seventh and eighth grades, engaging in the battle of goal lines and bulky football pads, was too much.

On the sidelines, as the contestants surged back and forth on the field, I wondered if I had struggled so diligently to wrest adolescence from the grasp of childhood.

Those games, the bruises, the shiny bikes and the discarded toys, suddenly took on new meaning.

The game is not football, baseball, dating or 'slot cars'. The game is life.

And it is only the very lucky child who finds out later that he had a good coach.

For most of us coaches, the outcome of the game seems to always remain in question. . .

Reader dismayed at handling of police story

Editor:

I read your Belleville Enterprise of Wednesday, August 30th this morning at breakfast.

I was quite dismayed at the contents of the front page, which also continued on to an editorial comment on Page A-6, regarding the local police situation at Van Buren.

It appears to me that the entire police situation in Van Buren Township has been handled poorly, not only from an operating standpoint but also a public relations standpoint and careful consideration of the functional objectives being desired versus the cost to the taxpayer.

It is bad enough that the Federal Governments and State Governments seem to think that today is open season on all working taxpayers and that all politicians and other non-contributors should live in the style to which they "want" to become accustomed, without contributing anything productive to this nation's economy.

I would like to suggest that the Van Buren Safety Commission investigate the possibility of negotiating a resident State Policeman in the Van Buren Township, along with other additional support as may be required from the closest state police post.

Ypsilanti's post already has the administrative offices, radio and all other overheads. The additional cost to Van Buren should consist only of the cost of the resident police officer and car, as well as the anticipated regular patrols.

Allowance should then be made for additional services required such as detective investigations and otherwise. We would obtain personnel that would have much higher capabilities, skills and training, therefore eliminating the costly duplication that has been going on in many branches of government.

I hope that this letter receives equal exposure on your front page, with or without acknowledgement to the author.

It is more important that the concept be presented to the taxpayer, particularly in advance of the 'already decided' election to take place during the November 8th general election.

Your consideration and cooperation in getting all of the facts before the taxpayer public is appreciated by all of the contributing taxpayers in our community.

Harry R. Mack, P.E.

Make decisions with your head, not heart

Editor:

We parents have some crucial decisions to make about our children's education as we go to the polls in November to cast our vote for or against proposals E, H, and J.

Hopefully, we will not let our emotional and/or financial frustrations rule our vote on tax proposals and worry about the reprisals later. Hopefully, we will look at the specifics of each of these tax proposals, and meditate on how each would create or limit the learning opportunities our children will have next year.

The Kids' Committee (formerly the Citizens Advisory Council of Van Buren School District) is hosting a Tax Reform Voter Education Seminar at the Belleville High School auditorium Monday, October 16, 7:30 P.M.

Parents and citizens will have the opportunity to listen to speakers representing the three tax reform proposals, including Mr. R.J. Lytle, the author of the voucher plan, and ask questions concerning each proposal.

I wish that auditorium would be packed with PARENTS and citizens for this community and neighboring ones. CHILD CARE WILL BE PROVIDED by the Belleville High Economic Department students.

Our kids' future education hangs in the balance.

Good things happening at BHS

Belleville High School is seeing some changes and they sure seem good!!!

A first in a long time was an assembly to honor the Belleville High Debate team which has finished with the top three teams in the State of Michigan for the last six years.

These young men and women are putting the same effort as always to come out on top again this year. Congratulations kids, I'm glad you finally got your day in the limelight.

But the thing that touched me as a parent (as this story was related to me by my two teens presently in high schools), was that the Principal, Mr. Jim Richendollar also attended the assembly.

When he entered the huge room full of students, they all rose and gave him a standing ovation....I think they are trying to tell us something...and I'm glad. Love you Jim, keep up the good work as I have two more to come into your school.

Winter retreat

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

The love-of-my-life came home. I hadn't heard him come in, but when I ran downstairs and tripped over his golf bag coated with mud, I knew the golf-season was over and my kids would have a father again.

"Hi," I shouted and fell over wet, mud-encrusted golf shoes.

"Where are you?" I hollered.

"In here," came a faint voice from over near the television set. Lifting up the plaid golf cap from the top of the chair I spotted a head that looked slightly familiar. It only looked slightly familiar because there was a bigger bald spot and a few more white hairs than there had been the last time I saw it.

"It's good to see you," I said, and I knew he was alive because he grunted. So I moved around in front of him and leaned over to kiss him or something, but he got a little bit excited, and one knows one should never lit tired golfers get excited.

"Move over," he shouted. "My-Gosh, can't you see that New York and the Dodgers are at a vital point in the World Series Game? Come on, move it."

And he glued his eyes to the set and there he sat... not moving a muscle, not blinking. If it hadn't been for a slight twitch of his little toe I would have been sure he had gone to never-never land.

Our youngest kid broke through the front door, stumbling over the mud-encrusted golf clubs and shouted, "Hey, Dad's home." When she received no answer she said, "Where is he?"

"In that chair," I told her and she went over and planted a kiss on his bald spot.

"Hi pops," she said. Not a quiver. The poor kid turned to me with tears welling in her eyes.

"Is he... is he?"

I put my arm around her and consoled her.

"No, he is just comatose until after New Year's, I'm afraid. It's particularly bad with the overlapping of seasons... what with golf, and baseball and football. He might become a bit more alert in a day or two."

A few days later our older son came in and took one look at his father.

"He's shriveling away," he shouted.

That's when we called in the med-squad.

Now if I can just learn how to manipulate that intravenous feeding contraption we just might save him, but if someone doesn't get his golf clubs cleaned up before spring we'll probably wish we hadn't.

Health Beat

'Metrics is a simple matter...'

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

If current plans obtain, it will not be too long before we in the United States make a total switchover to the metric system of weights and measures.

Hospital professionals have used metrics for a long time, and are not seriously threatened by this contemplated change. However, as I wander through the various PCHA communities I find people who are downright terrified at the prospect of using kilograms instead of pounds or liters rather than quarts.

You should first understand that the metric system has been with us for quite some time — since the time of the French Revolution in 1789 to be precise.

It seems that civilizations have, for centuries, agonized over what exact system of weights and measures ought to be employed.

The Royal Society of London, in the last part of the 17th century (1660), initiated a project to establish a system for decimal measurement.

According to 'Columbia' magazine in an article written by Doris Revere Peters, the French just ten years later suggested a different system based on a unit they named the milliare. A milliare is the length of one minute of arc of a great circle of the Earth.

Neither the British nor the first French system were accepted, and it remained until 1789 before the metric system was adopted by the scientific community.

The metric system is based on powers of 10, and is really quite simple once a person understands the basics.

A standard measurement of length can be thought of as a meter. Once you learn the various prefixes, the system becomes obvious and clear.

For instance, a kilometer is 1000 meters (the prefix kilo means 1000). To translate our current system of miles to kilometers, all one must do is multiply the distance in miles by 0.62; i.e., if it is 100 miles between two cities, divide the 100 by 0.62 and you see that in metrics that distance is 161.29 kilometers. Conversely, if you wish to translate kilometers to miles, multiply the distance in kilometers by 0.62.

The speed limit in the US today is 55 mph; in metrics, this equals 88 kilometers to miles, multiply the distance in kilometers by 0.62.

The speed limit in the US today is 55 mph; in metrics, this equals 88 kilometers per hour (55 divided by 0.62-88). Again, all you must remember is that 0.62 is the operative number.

When you donate blood at a blood bank — or if you receive blood at a hospital — the basic measure is called one unit, which is equal to 500 cc's which is approximately one pint. There are 100 cc's in a liter which is equal to a little better than 1.75 pints — almost one quart. Half of one quart is one pint, and obviously, half of 1000 cc's is 500 cc's. Simple, huh?

Many ask just why we found it necessary in this country to initiate the switch to metrics.

The two most compelling reasons are uniformity and economy coupled with precision and accuracy.

Have you ever wondered just how we derive some of the measures we use today? Well, a foot was determined in 1789 by the British as the distance covered by 36 barley corns laid end to end. An inch was represented by three of those 36 corns, which made the inch one twelfth of the foot.

And get this one. A yard was established as the distance from the outstretched fingers to the tip of the nose of King Edgar — an obscure Anglo-Saxon king of the 10th century.

One meter equals 39.37 inches — just a little more than a yard. Thus, in the Olympic Games, the 100-meter dash is 109.36 yards as we would reckon the distance. The so-called metric mile is 1500 meters which is not quite one mile. Again, all one must do is remember the basics and the translations come easily.

In some instances, we've already been using metrics but not identifying it as such. A standard twin-size bed is 39 by 75 inches. That is almost exactly 1 by 2 meters.

Now for temperature.

We are used to expressing heat or cold in degrees Fahrenheit, a system wherein freezing is said to occur at +32 degrees and boiling at +212 degrees.

This system was developed by Gabriel Fahrenheit, a German instrument maker who, for whatever reason(s), arbitrarily established those two key numbers above a zero reference as the points for freezing and boiling.

It remained for a Swedish astronomer, Anders Celsius, to develop a more logical system in which freezing is at 0 degrees and boiling at +100 degrees. Most weatherpeople today give both degrees F and C.

There are, no doubt, many who will fight the introduction of the metric system. I suggest, however, that those people would be better served if they were to take the time to learn metrics; be pragmatic, it's here, so why fight it?

Learn it and life will be a lot easier.

On the Brighter Side

Don't ya know 'just playing'

By JIM BRADLEY

Today's column is done tongue-in-cheek. That means I'm only spoofing and having fun.

The reason I introduce it that way is because some people seem to misunderstand and take me seriously when I'm "pulling their leg". (The only time I take it seriously when somebody pulls my leg is when a chiropractor has a hold of me).

I guess a columnist must realize the frame of reference from which a reader views his writings. For instance, a sour-puss, who was weaned on dill pickles, wouldn't find very much of anything humorous.

And I guess that's where I'm different. I can find something to chuckle about in just about every situation. (I said "just about"!).

It's like the story about the preacher who dared his congregation to name even one good characteristic about the Devil.

"He's persistent!" called a voice from the rear of the auditorium.

And it would do us all good to be "persistent" in seeking the brighter side of life. Of course, life is only really worth living when we know the Lord and walk with Him.

But while some "pious" persons can't smile without cracking their face, I believe the Lord will forgive us if we have a sense of humor.

That's why I write light-hearted material for the most part. God has put a song in my heart and it manifests itself in good-natured fun and a look at the brighter side.

Therefore, when you read my column, you will note that I try to give you a chuckle or two along the way. The Bible says: "Laughter does the heart good like a medicine."

So even though you don't realize it, I'm helping you to feel better by making you smile. (Take two jokes and call me in the morning!) That'll be a $10 "doctor's" fee, please. (I hope they don't jail me for practicing medicine without a license). My doctor tells me he's been practicing for 20 years now. I wish he'd learn how so he could stop practicing.

My dentist is also quite a character. When I went to see him, he said, "Don't worry, I'm painless."

"You may be, but I'm not," I replied. "I'm nervous, this is my first time to have a tooth pulled," I said.

"Well, don't worry, it's my first time, too," he said reassuringly.

I tried to take my mind off the dentist's instruments by thinking about the New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers playing in the World Series. Then I looked up on the wall and saw a large sign that read: "I'm in favor of the YANKS!"

We all have our "off" days—you know, those times when nothing goes right. But when your "off" days outnumber the good ones, you're in trouble.

I was reminded of the positive approach to life when my good buddy, Chum Stockwell, called me on the phone recently and chewed me out.

"I've got a bone to pick with you," he said in mock anger. He'd just finished reading my column where I discussed reaching "Middle age". I said in the column that if old age was having one foot in the grave and the other on a banana peel, middle age must be like having both feet on banana peels.

Chum, who celebrated his 50th wedding anniversary last year, thought I was serious. So he called to tell me in no uncertain terms that I needed a brighter, more positive outlook on life. He's found the fountain of youth and has more energy than youngsters half his age.

He sent me a cassette tape with a message about building a good self-image. Apparently he didn't realize I was having a little fun with "tongue-in-cheek" humor about my waning energy.

Then I happened to see in the daily newspaper how this British psychiatrist, Dr. Malcolm Carruthers, says you can "talk yourself" out of the doldrums. He said all you have to do is lie down in a "corpse position" and repeat simple phrases directed at your body.

So I tried it.

As I was lying prone on top of my desk, two co-workers passed by. I overheard one say to the other, "I'm glad to see Jim's feeling his normal self today."

Dr. Carruthers stressed that you can't demand that your arm become heavy, for instance, it's a question of "letting it become heavy if it feels like it." I guess it's like a poor man's use of cybernetics. You know, "You are what you think" type of thing.

As I was repeating simple phrases to parts of my body to make me have a better "self-image", our photographer, Tom Greenwood, walked up. "Are you talking to yourself, Jim?" he asked. "Must be a dull conversation!" he wise-cracked.

Despite all that, I felt much better and had Tom take several new pictures of me for use with my column. Of all the ones he took, look at the one they chose to put in the top right-hand corner of this column.

Egad!

If you should come by the newspaper office and see me lying prone on my desk, don't worry. I'm just having a heart-to-heart talk with my face.

As school superintendent, EMU regent

Attorney General rules Dyer's jobs are 'incompatible'

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

In the opinion from Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, Dr. Timothy J. Dyer is holding two "incompatible" jobs as superintendent of Wayne-Westland Community Schools and member of the Eastern Michigan University Board of Regents.

The opinion, dated Sept. 25, was brought to light this week by Dr. Vincent J. Petitpren, the man who was ousted from the Wayne-Westland school board nearly three months ago because of a similar charge of incompatibility, based on "possible conflict of interest." Petitpren is superintendent of the Taylor Public Schools.

In July, Dyer stated: "If an attorney general's opinion is handed down similar to the one in this (Petitpren's) case, I'd resign."

However, yesterday, when asked what he is going to do as a result of the recent attorney general's opinion, Dyer said he would not react until he gets advice from the attorneys for the EMU Board of Regents.

"I informed the chairman of the board (of the opinion), and he turned it over to our attorney," Dyer said. "They (the Board of Regents) have serious reservations about it. They cannot understand its contradictions with past attorney general opinions."

Dyer said the board chairman asked him to take no action until the lawyers could examine past attorney general opinions. Dyer added that this new opinion appears to "fly in the face of a previous decision" given in the case of a city clerk serving on the board of regents.

He also maintains that the opinion seems to contradict previous court precedent that "establishes higher education (colleges) of the state as independent corporate bodies not subject to control of the State Department of Education."

The next meeting of the Board of Regents is Wednesday, and Dyer said he assumes he will take part in the meeting.

Dyer was appointed to the Board of Regents by the governor on Jan. 26, 1973. On July 1, 1973, he became Wayne-Westland superintendent.

It was Petitpren who requested the attorney general's opinion on Dyer. Petitpren was removed from the board as a result of an earlier attorney general's opinion that said his two positions posed a possible conflict. At the time, he pointed out that if the concept of "potential" conflict were carried through, then a lot of people in similar situations could be affected.

In Kelley's opinion on Dyer, he noted that the considerations used in the Petitpren opinion also are relevant to the Dyer incompatibility.

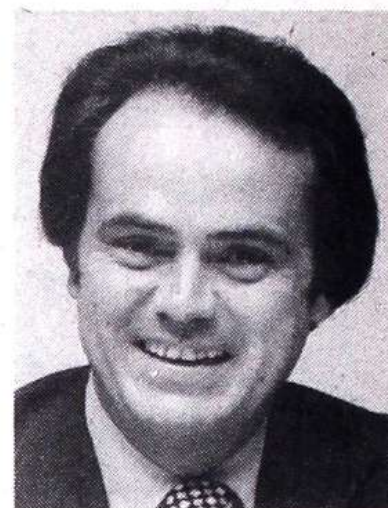

In summarizing the incompatibility ruling on Dyer, Kelley referred specifically to the fact that the EMU Board of Regents enters into contracts with local school districts regarding training of student teachers, rental of facilities and "numerous" other purposes.

"It is apparent that there is a substantial potential for conflict when the same person serves as both a member of the board of control (of EMU) and as the superintendent, or a member of the board of education, of a local school district, particularly when the school district is in reasonably close proximity to the university."

"No person can objectively represent and protect the interests of both boards in entering into a contract between the two boards."

Kelley used very similar words in his description of Petitpren's situation. In both cases, the "potential for conflict" argument is used. Kelley said it applied to Petitpren, regardless of the remoteness of the possibility for conflict, although in the Dyer case he refers to a "substantial potential for conflict."

Petitpren is still convinced that he was and is being denied his constitutional rights with the prohibition that he cannot serve on the school board. He maintains that: "Frank Kelley made gross errors and should reverse the decision in my case."

However, when Petitpren took that contention to Wayne County Circuit Court, Judge Thomas Roumell ruled in favor of the school board in ousting him. Petitpren is appealing to the Court of Appeals.

Petitpren challenges Warmbier on compatibility of school, city posts

Dr. Vincent J. Petitpren, former Wayne-Westland school board member, intends to challenge the seat of school board President Fred

FRED WARMBIER

Warmbier on an alleged "conflict of interest" charge.

It was because of potential conflict of interest that Petitpren was bumped from the board by his fellow members back in July. He is also superintendent of Taylor Public Schools, and an attorney general's opinion called the two positions incompatible. That contention, and Petitpren's ouster, were upheld in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Warmbier has been a member of the Wayne Planning Commission since 1965, and a member of the Wayne Zoning Board of Appeals since 1963. He has remained in those unpaid positions since becoming a board member.

Petitpren said that "according to the potential of incompatibility ruling in the case of Petitpren versus the Board of Education, it is incompatible for Warmbier to sit on the Wayne-Westland school board, as well as the Wayne Zoning Board of Appeals and Planning Commission."

He said that if Warmbier's seat on the board is not vacated, and he continues to sit on the Wayne commissions, he will form a citizen committee and take Warmbier to court to get an injunction preventing him from sitting on the board.

Petitpren contends that Warmbier's two city commission positions pose a real conflict of interest, not just a potential conflict. He maintains that on those commissions he makes decisions that can affect land value and taxes on property in the city. And the entire city is in the Wayne-Westland School District.

However, Warmbier responded by explaining the function of the two commissions.

"The Planning Commission is strictly a recommending body to the City Council. We have no control," Warmbier explained. "We could recommend that the council do something, and they could say no."

The Zoning Appeals Board can only grant variances as far as construction on property already zoned. It does not have the power to change zoning, Warmbier said, but rather decides such matters as whether or not Burger King can have a sign that is taller than the ordinance allows.

"As far as I'm concerned, if the attorney general says it is a conflict, I'll resign the two positions (on the city boards)," he said. "If Vince (Petitpren) has a question on it, the place to go is to the attorney general and get an opinion."

"But I've never seen anything in my service on either board that would be a conflict."

It was Warmbier who originally requested that the board get an attorney general's opinion on Petitpren's positions as board member in Wayne-Westland and superintendent in Taylor.

Asked if his charges against Warmbier and similar ones against Supt. Tim Dyer, might be construed as sour grapes, Petitpren replied: "All I'm talking about is equal justice under the law."

Snack time

It's snack time for many of the Canada geese that inhabit Kensington Metropark, or stop for a breather on their way south. Park visitors will find the geese along the Huron River, on Kent and Wildwing lakes or in Kingfisher Lagoon (above). Always ready for a hand-out, this park visitor found the geese near the park's nature center building weren't shy about accepting munchies.

Ducks and geese stop at metropark during trip south

Ducks, geese and swans are migrating this time of year through southeastern Michigan, with many species stopping to rest and feed at Kensington Metropark near Brighton and Milford.

Naturalist Bob Hotaling estimated that perhaps 20 species of ducks may be seen at the metropark, including Widgeons, Mergansers, Goldeneyes, Scaup, Ringnecks, Bufflehead and Ruddy Ducks, while other waterbirds that visit include Loons, Grebes and Coots. Whistling Swans sometimes are seen in November.

Hotaling said the most familiar waterfowl are the Canada (not Canadian — an incorrect description) Geese, which are easily recognized by their large size, honking sounds and V-formation flight patterns. Most are enroute to their wintering grounds in the south or along the East coast.

Canada Geese often are scattered throughout the park—along the Huron River, on Kent and Wildwing lakes or on Kingfisher Lagoon by the nature center building. It is near the nature center that most visitors like to admire the geese and also provide a hand-out.

Often Canada Geese fly in during the morning, spend the day in the park and leave in the late afternoon for favorite feeding and sleeping sites. Although they usually are found in the water, the geese actually spend a lot of time on land, grazing on grass, a favorite food.

Several hundred Canada Geese choose Kensington Metropark for their permanent home. Many may be found by the "Goose Platform" near the nature center building. The geese are always hungry, gobbling up hand-outs from human benefactors. Although most persons bring bread or crackers, corn offers much more nutrition.

Canada Geese may be recognized by their long necks. Large size (they average 10-15 lbs.), and black, brown and white coloration with white cheek patches. They almost never stop "talking" of "honking". They often are seen in family groups of 6 to 8 birds.

If you haven't seen Kensington's geese, take a drive out to the park. The geese will welcome you with open mouths.

Canada Geese will be the subject of a special program to be held at the nature study area of Kensington Metropark on Oct. 28 at 9 a.m. Slides and discussion will be provided. Participants should meet at the nature center and bring food for the geese.

Advance registration is required. To register contact the Kensington Metropark nature center at 685-1561.

Golfer's dream: Pebble Beach comes to Westland

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Golf may soon be competing with racquetball and bowling as popular indoor sports in Westland this winter.

Winter golf?

That's exactly right, according to Dean Gherardini, a young man with a novel idea, a half completed building and the sole rights in the area to an indoor golf system called golf-o-tron.

He's hoping to open for business in November, offering Westlanders the opportunity to "play" such renowned golf courses as Pebble Beach (California) without ever setting foot out of Westland. Without ever setting foot onto an actual golf course, in fact.

His 9,600 square foot structure, located with foresight right next to Westland's new nine-hole golf course on Merriman Road south of Cherry Hill, is moving toward completion.

The structure is up, but the indoor work must be completed within a month if the place is to open by mid-November as planned. Gherardini is in the process of applying to the state (he already has city approval) for a liquor license in the name of Westland Indoor Golf, Inc. to operate a lounge in the building.

But the main attractions have yet to be installed.

And those are 10 electronic machines set up behind 10 by 10 foot projection screens. They will bring to life, via film projectors, seven well known professional golf courses from throughout the country.

The golfer will stand at his tee, 14 feet from the screen, select his club, and take his shot, as he looks out onto the green of the golf range.

In reality, his ball will hit the screen and drop, but with the magic of the machine, the golfer will "see" his ball fly through the air toward the green. It will land, then the projector will visually "walk" him up to the ball, where he will take another shot, and continue on like that until he gets within putting range. Then, he will putt right on the floor of the cubicle.

The system operates with electronic sensors, explained Gherardini.

Sensors located under the tee measure the angle of the swing and how the club hits the ball. The ball then hits the screen, where another set of sensors picks up the direction it's going in and where and how far away it will land.

The screen is bullet proof, Gherardini added, so it will withstand even the fastest drives.

There will be 10 cubicles on the large room, separated by heavy curtains. However, the curtains will go only about two-thirds of the way up the sides from the screen, so golfers can see one another at the tees, and onlookers can stand behind the golfers to watch.

Each cubicle accommodates a foursome, or players can practice alone. The player controls the game, meaning he can re-play a hole, or skip one, if he chooses, Gherardini said.

Seven of the most famous golf courses in the country will be available for play at the range, all brought to you on the silver screen.

The building will also contain a pro shop, in addition to the lounge and 10 golf-o-trons, and a professional golfer will be on hand to give lessons, Gherardini said.

Another feature will be a golf swing analyzer, again operated with electronic sensors, that will help players find out their mistakes and improve their swing.

The manufacturer of the indoor golf equipment is in New York City, and goes by the name Golf-O-Tron. It is endorsed by the Professional Golfers' Association, according to Gherardini.

In Westland, the company operating the place will officially use the name Westland Indoor Golf, Inc., because there is another company in the state with the name Golf-O-Tron. But the nearest course associated with this manufacturer is in Howell, Michigan.

Gherardini said he has sole development rights from the manufacturer in this area. He will be owner and manager.

Ralph Calamita is building the facility.

Winter fees will probably range from $8 per hour during the day to $10 per hour in the evening, Gherardini said. One person can probably play 18 holes in 40 minutes, he figured.

"And you don't have to be a good player to enjoy it," he said. "You don't have to chase the ball around."

Achieves state-wide recognition

Project Metric: It's come a long way in four years

Work is stacking up

The workload of Eleanor Petty and Thomas Yack is piling up at Project Metric. They're compiling hundreds of notebooks containing lessons in metric measurement for school districts throughout Michigan. But remember, stacked up work at Project Metric is measured by a meter stick, a word that rolls off the tongue of director Yack as easily as the rest of us still say yardstick. Project Metric is beginning its fifth year, and has been named a state demonstration program by the Michigan Department of Education.—ANP photo.

WCC will conduct photo workshop

Photography enthusiasts who want to capture the beauty of autumn on film can sharpen their techniques Saturday at a workshop offered by Washtenaw Community College.

The color photography workshop will be held for any interested country residents. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Garry Poole, professional photographer from this area, will instruct the class. Participants should bring their own cameras and film—either print or slide. A $15 fee for other materials will be charged. Senior citizens in the district may attend the class at no charge. The course will be held at the college's Ypsilanti Center, 411 Florence.

Advance registration is requested. To register, or for further information, call 482-2230.

Project Metric has come a long way since its debut four years ago in the Wayne-Westland Community Schools.

At that time, the district dubbed itself "Metric City U.S.A." and launched a program to educate youngsters on the metric system of measurement.

Today, as the federally funded program begins its fifth year, it has achieved a status of state-wide recognition.

It recently was named a "demonstration project" for the State of Michigan. As such, the program staff will be available to all Michigan school districts to assist them in implementing their own metric programs, based on Wayne-Westland's model.

Designation as a state demonstration project is a goal that many projects, such as metric, have when they begin pilot programs encompassing new educational ideas. Of the 16 projects state-wide that started with Project Metric in 1974, four have made it as far as Wayne-Westland's, said director Thomas Yack, who has headed up the program since it began.

Project Metric was one of 18 programs declared demonstration projects recently by the Michigan Department of Education. It is the only metric program, said Yack.

The department scrutinizes the project's performance, and especially its student impact data, to determine if it has been a "success."

During the first three years of the federally funded project, Yack and his staff of one assistant and secretary operated solely in Wayne-Westland, teaching teachers to teach other teachers and students metric measurement. Parents and the community were involved in workshops for metric awareness as well.

Using the "hands on" approach, workshops were held to show the system of measurement that is the standard throughout most of the world.

During those years, the staff compiled materials and lesson activities that have now been organized into large looseleaf books that the project will make available to other Michigan districts.

During the fourth year of the grant, Project Metric had to "prove itself" to the state by taking its program and putting it into practice in another school district. That experimental year was spent teaching teachers in a St. Clair Shores school district how to teach metrics to students.

The students in St. Clair Shores were tested and came up with more than 85 percent mastery of the program's objectives, Yack said.

As a state demonstrator, any district in Michigan can contact Project Metric, which will still be headquartered in Wayne-Westland at Tinkham School, and ask for training.

The staff administrators—Yack and associate director Eleanor Petty—will go to the district and teach teachers. They also will sell the book of lessons to districts, with or without the in-serviceing.

"Profits" will go back into the program.

School districts are eligible for state grants up to $5,000 to implement their own metric programs, including training from Yack and Ms. Petty, Yack said. This cost would include printing of materials, purchase of supplies, training of teachers, and such. The district would probably have to add some of its own funds, as well, to thoroughly implement a program, he added.

Yack and Mrs. Petty, former principal of Wilson School, still are employees of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, but are paid with grant funds through the government, which has sponsored the project since the beginning.

Some say stamping a letter upside down ensures a speedy answer.

Women, as bosses is workshop topic

A one-day workshop for women who have their sights set on top management jobs will be conducted through the Division of Continuing Education at Marygrove College from 8:30 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. Oct. 20.

The program will help women plan a career, develop a better understanding of themselves and those around them, and teach them to motivate people to work with and for them. They also will learn how to communicate successfully and use their time effectively.

The "Women in Management" workshop will be conducted by Ethel M. Wilcox, Ph.D., assistant professor of speech and communication at the University of Toledo.

She is marketing research consultant and co-author of "Communications: Explorations - Applications."

A fee of $95 includes materials, continental breakfast and lunch. For information contact the Marygrove College Division of Continuing Education at 862-8000, ext. 240.

New Science Center is close encounter with reality

Want to flirt with the galaxies as you travel thousands of miles into space—or swim the underseas waters through schools of fish—or experience an aerial close encounter with snow-peaked mountain ranges? Nothing is left to the imagination. The tour that boggles the mind begins with the sensation of being shot out of the core of a volcano and funneled out into space. From the comfort of a tilted, reclining chair the fantastic journey begins. It actually starts upon entering the gleaming new Detroit Science Center, located in the heart of the cultural center of Michigan's largest city. From the lobby the visitor is transported to the lower show level via an escalator which tunnels through an array of multi-colored, flashing lights and thence to the Science Center Space Theatre. The Space Theatre has no walls as it is completely dome-shaped, 67½ feet in diameter. This, in itself, is the motion picture screen that envelopes and completely wraps around the viewer. From the pitch blackness of the darkened theatre, the showing of "Cosmos" begins as the viewer is vaulted into space and becomes an eye witness to the forming of galaxies; meteors on all sides zip through the black void. Suddenly the viewer finds himself in the depths of the ocean; then inside an atom and then experiencing a brief excursion around snow-capped mountain summits. All of this is made possible through the use of the most advanced projection system in the world—the 70mm Omnimax motion picture projector. The entire dome is covered with a single image as the Omnimax projects 180-degree images through a fisheye lens. To further add to the realism, six stereophonic speakers placed strategically throughout the room surround the viewer with sound, thus completing the fantastic illusion. "Cosmos", is the star in this galaxy of exhibits at the Detroit Science Center. On the upper level, or ground floor, "hands on" exhibits are featured showing actual working presentations in the areas of mathematics, physics, geology, electronics and space. Included in the 45 exhibits are such presentations as an anti-gravity illusion, color perception, momentum, mirror star tracing, sound stroboscopy and many more.

At the theramin exhibit, for example, visitors are invited to play this electronic instrument which produces musical tones without touching it. It is described as the first truly electronic musical instrument. Visitors also are invited to match wits with a computer in the game of tic-tac-toe. The challenge is to beat the machine.

Special live presentations are offered to groups of 15 to 60 persons free of additional charge, encompassing such subjects as demonstrations of electricity, chemicals, heat, light and sound. One of the demonstrations includes the hologram, which is a three-dimensional image exposed on photographic film by using laser light. Younger visitors are fascinated by the Rainbow Reaction demonstration where chemical reaction produces a spectrum of colors. In another demonstration, angular momentum, the principle of the gyroscope, is played before delighted audiences.

Admission is $2 for older children and adults and $1 for children five years old and younger, which includes one "Cosmos" showing and visits to the exhibits. The Science Center, located at 5020 John R. St., is open seven days a week. For information on other things to see in Michigan, contact the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, P.O. Box 30226, Lansing, 48909, or call toll free in Michigan 1-800-292-2520.

Please touch

Visitors to Detroit's Science Center near the heart of Detroit are encouraged to manipulate and handle many of the 45 exhibits that are on display. A showing of "Cosmos", an exciting motion picture trip into space through the use of 70-mm projector, is a memorable highlight of the visit. The Science Center is located on John R Street in Detroit's cultural center.

Canton's projected budget logs jump of 15 percent in '79

In spite of a state-wide move to cut property tax bills, the Canton Township projected budget for 1979 is a seven-digit figure.

Board members, next Tuesday, are expected to pass the $3,284,000 package, up 15-percent from last year.

Newly created departments in the township, rising legal fees and union salary hikes have helped to inch the budget up.

In the area of recreation, four new full-time positions have been proposed. A $22,176 a year superintendent's job has been created.

Proposed are three additional positions of a full-time nature. One is for a $14,000 a year recreation supervisor's slot, another for a senior citizens coordinator position with a salary of $13,000, and a third is for a full time maintenance person at $18,000.

Much controversy has been centered around the positions that are currently only parttime. Trustee Lynn Goldsmith has been concerned that the township might try to hire current part-time employees for the new positions without those persons submitting to competitive examinations.

But Mike Gorman, Finance Director, said that testing will be required.

Total recreation budget costs are expected to reach $186,000. Township legal fees are projected to reach $40,000 in 1979. That is considered a conservative estimate by Gorman who notes that each year the legal fees have risen.

Back in 1974 legal fees came to $12,444, and in 1975 the total bill for the year came to $24,833, doubling the year before.

During Supervisor Harold Stein's administration, legal fees doubled again. In 1976 the annual cost was $35,120, and in 1977 it hit the $50,000 mark.

Reaching a six-digit level, the building department's wages will approach $275,000 next year. But Gorman attributes the climb in numbers to the increase in the number of employees being hired.

Even though Canton voters turned down a millage for a library, the cost to contract for library book services from Wayne and Plymouth comes to $60,000, according to budget projections.

A brand new community development department will cost taxpayers $107,000. The bulk of the cost is due to the wages and salaries of a newly hired grant coordinator, secretary, planner, staff assts. and membership fees and dues.

Canton still, even with its community development department, apparently plans on contracting out for professional services.

Expected contractual costs are for $35,000.

Officials hope to make money once again in the weed cutting department though.

Since the present administration came into office, the weed dept. has been overhauled. Last year the township collected $42,251 and spent $21,793 on maintenance.

With a conservative estimate, Gorman says the township should expect to make about $5,000 off the program in 1979.

U-M bands combine in show

Hill Auditorium on the Ann Arbor campus of the University of Michigan will be the site of the 1978 Band-O-Rama, which will feature the university's Symphony Band, Concert Band, Marching Band, Jazz Band and Friars.

Tickets for the music fest cost $2, $4 and $5 and can be obtained by writing 1273 School of Music, University of Michigan Ann Arbor 48109.

What Documents Will My Family Need At The Time Of My Death?

One of the most frustrating responsibilities of a spouse or family, at time of death, can be that of locating important papers and documents. A current and updated listing of these papers can, indeed, be a benefit to survivors.

This is a difficult activity for anyone to do because no one really wants to anticipate death or even prepare for it. On the other hand, you would be doing a real service to your family if you follow through on this. Make a list of your documents, indicating where each is.

The type of such papers and documents, along with location, might include: 1) your will, 2) Social Security papers, veteran's records, 3) cemetery deed, 4) insurance policies, 5) such certificates as birth, marriage, organization and/or union membership, educational, military, 6) bank accounts and safety deposit boxes, 7) financial papers such as trust funds, 8) all recent tax returns or W2 forms.

Sometimes this information turns up information about assets either forgotten about or not known of by the survivors.

Forest harvest is nutty

Walnuts, butternuts and hickory nuts are a familiar part of the wild harvest to be reaped in Michigan's forests. But, to the person who knows the other edibles that forestlands provide, nuts are just the beginning.

"Dozens of wild fruits, seeds, roots and other plant parts can be harvested and eaten," says Mel Koelling, Extension forester at Michigan State University. He urges anyone thinking about harvesting wild edibles on private land to get the landowner's permission before collecting. And he urges novices to spend some time with an expert and a reliable plant identification guide to learn how to identify the plants that are safe eating.

"If you're not sure that a plant is edible, don't eat it," he cautioned. "Harvest only the things that you're sure of."

Nuts are a good crop for beginners, Koelling suggests. Black walnut, butternut and several kinds of hickory are native to Michigan. Among the hickories, shagbark hickory is the most highly prized for its nuts. Some types of hickory have bitter nuts. It pays to be able to tell the difference.

Another nut harvested less frequently because of its small size is the beechnut. This triangular, thin-shelled, oily nut can be eaten as is or roasted. After roasting and grinding, it can be used as a substitute for coffee. Though it takes a lot of beechnuts to make a bushel, they are easier to crack than the larger walnuts, butternuts and hickories. They're ready for harvest after the outer husk turns from green to brown.

Native American edible chestnuts have been all but wiped out by disease. Any "chestnuts" you find growing wild are almost certainly buckeyes, or horse chestnuts, which are poisonous.

Today people rarely think of eating acorns, but the Indians used to gather large quantities of them to roast or to grind into meal and bake into nutritious bread. They removed the tannin, which gives the nuts their bitter flavor, by soaking the meal in water and then filtering it, or by boiling and leaching it with ashes. Members of the white oak family generally have sweeter acorns that are better for food than acorns from black oaks.

The Indians also ate the large, sugary pods of the honey locust. The seeds of black locust, however, reportedly are poisonous. The Kentucky coffee tree gets its name from the use of its seeds, ground and roasted, as a coffee substitute.

Pawpaw fruits, three to five inches long and dark brown, look like small bananas. The soft, sweet, yellow pulp inside is reminiscent of egg custard. They ripen in late autumn.

Crabapples, hawthorn fruits, wild cherries, wild plums, serviceberries and chokeberries are all members of the rose family that produce edible fruits. Wild plums and serviceberries — also known as juneberries — can be eaten fresh or made into pies, jellies or preserves. The others, which tend to be tart or seedy — or both — are better used in jelly.

Other edible fruits of the forest include mulberry, hackberry and elderberry. Mulberries are sweet, juicy and purplish. They can be eaten fresh or made into pies, jellies and jams. Hackberries also are sweet enough for munching out of hand. Pies, jams, jellies and wines can be made from the purplish or bluish elder fruits.

Tea made by brewing small pieces of roots and rootbark from the sassafras tree is a common beverage and "spring tonic."

Some of the forest's other edible plant parts might have little appeal except as emergency foods. The inner bark of aspens, cottonwoods, alders, birches, hickories, slippery elm, American elm, sassafras and basswood is reportedly edible. The Indians used to eat the inner bark of pines, hemlocks, spruces and firs. The buds of basswood are edible raw or cooked. The flower buds, flowers and young pods of redbud can be fried in butter and eaten.

One forest food that was important to the Indians and the pioneers remains economically important today. That's maple syrup. Sugar maple is the tree most commonly tapped for its sweet sap, but black maple, silver maple and boxelder also may be harvested. Though their sap is not as sweet, black walnuts, hickories and even birches can also be tapped.

Inkster arrests clear up 23 burglary incidents

Inkster police said last week that they have cleared up at least 23 of 28 recent break-ins with the arrest of two men.

The defendants, Royce Frederick Russell, 19, of 1875 Lexington, and James Taylor III, address unknown, were arraigned in an outcounty courtroom last week and charged with breaking and entering. They were released on bonds and returned for preliminary examination on October 18 in Inkster.

"We feel that we have cleared up at least 23 of the 28 recent break-ins in the northwest section of the city," said Det. Sgt. James Buckley. "What is so unusual about this case is that most of the B & Es were in the daylight hours."

Sgt. Buckley added "that we have executed four search warrants and have recovered several hundred dollars worth of the alleged loot."

Police said that on October 5 they instigated a saturation of the northwest section of the city following a rash of break-ins in the area.

As a result of police surveillance, officers Charles Hines and Randy Macko, spotted the defendant Russell and another man in the area of Oakwood and Harrison. The defendant was in a 1971 Ford Maverick. After trailing the suspects, the two officers stopped and questioned them and discovered a reported stolen television set in the back of the vehicle.

Further investigation by police resulted in the arrest of Taylor. In a separate incident, a Ypsilanti's man one-night crime spree in Inkster ended in his arrest after a high speed chase.

Police said they have obtained a warrant charging James Dale Johnson, 31, who gave an alias, Marchel Palmer, of Ypsilanti, with illegal entry.

Johnson was remanded to Wayne County Jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond after his arraignment on the charge before an outcounty judge. Johnson's preliminary examination has been set for Oct. 18.

According to police, Johnson was nabbed after going on a "midnight crime spree which including breaking and entering three garages and the alleged theft of a motor vehicle."

He was arrested by patrolmen

Glenn Palmer and Dennis Anderson after a high speed chase. The defendant's vehicle crashed into a utility pole on Middlebelt and Lexington Parkway. According to police Johnson was not injured.

Police said that the vehicle the defendant was driving had been reported stolen earlier in the day. "We received several reports of breaking and entering of garages and the attempted and the theft of a vehicle last Friday," said Det. Sgt. Buckley, "and our officers picked up the defendant's trail and arrested him after he had crashed his vehicle."

New laws protect pregnant workers

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining, in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law on their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

For some time now, both state and federal laws have moved toward protecting pregnant women against discrimination — in hiring, in promoting and in remaining on the job for as long as medically advisable. Forced maternity leave and denial of accrued seniority during maternity leave also have been deemed illegal.

Now, once again, pregnant women's rights have been expanded in Michigan. Just this year, an amendment of Michigan's Civil Rights Act was passed, requiring employers to include disability payments to pregnant employees in their disability benefit and health insurance plans and to allow sick leave to be used for pregnancy-related illnesses. This does not mean every employer must offer a disability benefit plan. But, if one exists or is offered, it must cover the disabilities suffered by women as well as men.

In the past, disability plans have been written to exclude benefits for pregnancy disability. Health insurance plans failed to cover medical services needed by women, such as pre-natal care, x-rays and laboratory tests connected with pregnancy. Now, plans which provide otherwise comprehensive coverage also must cover these services.

These protections evolved because of a number of U.S. Supreme Court decisions. Those decisions have collectively made it more and more difficult to discriminate against women simply because of pregnancy — regardless of their marital status. Such discrimination is in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the United States Constitution.

A spokesperson for the Department of Civil Rights indicates that employers have been slow to heed the law and its ramifications. Many teachers, for example, have been unable to use their accumulated sick leave for pregnancy-related disability or illness. But the law now states that pregnant employees are entitled to disability payments during pregnancy, and their sick leave can be used for most legitimate medical reasons, including those related to pregnancy.

Any person who believes that she has been denied disability coverage or medical insurance benefits because of pregnancy may file a complaint with the Department of Civil Rights, 520 Seymour St. Lansing 48933.

WINTERIZE YOUR HOME TODAY

Utility recommends

Furnace should be checked after long summer layoff

Colder weather means residential furnaces are operating again after a long summer layoff, and one utility, Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., is reminding homeowners that there are several steps they can take themselves to make sure their furnace is working efficiently and safely.

Fred H. McIntire, vice-president Distribution System Operations, said the wisest step a homeowner can take is to call a licensed heating contractor for a pre-winter furnace check-up. However, there are simple checks gas customers can perform to insure smooth furnace operation. These include inspecting the filter, blower, blower motor, and burner area.

Before beginning, check the furnace flue pipe. The flue pipe connects the furnace to the home's chimney and carries products of combustion outside the house. Check to see that the pipe is firmly attached to the furnace and the chimney and that the pipe has not rust holes.

Next, turn the furnace off. To make sure it's off, turn up the thermostat to start the burner and blower. Then turn off the blower switch — which often looks like an ordinary light switch and generally is located to one side of the furnace. The customer will know the furnace is off when the blower stops running. Reset the thermostat to its lowest setting.

Then begin the check: AIR FILTER: The air filter is located in the cold air return system. Filters are made of fiberglass and can be easily cleaned with the brush attachment of a vacuum cleaner. If the filter doesn't come clean, it should be replaced with a new one, which can be purchased at hardware departments of most large stores.

Some furnaces have permanent filters, which can be washed in warm water and detergent, rinsed, drained dry and replaced in the furnace. A clean filter will mean the warm air circulating through the house will be cleaner and will circulate more easily.

BLOWER: The blower motor is located in the rear of the furnace. Examine the motor's belt thoroughly. If it's cracked or worn to the point the inside cords are showing, replace it. The belt should be replaced every 3-5 years as part of preventive maintenance (or keep a spare on hand for use in an emergency).

BLOWER MOTOR: Place a few drops of electric motor oil in the oil cups located near the ends of the motor shaft. Some motors are permanently lubricated and do not require periodic oiling. Be sure to use only electric motor oil, which can be purchased at a hardware store, since any other type of oil may ruin the blower motor.

Finally, check the burner AIR INLET GRILLWORK to make sure it's clean and unobstructed. Check the area around your furnace to make sure it's free of dust, dirt, cans, wood, paper and other flammable materials.

If the furnace won't start, don't forget to check the furnace fuse or circuit breaker. If it still won't start, call your heating contractor.

Michigan Consolidated provides emergency service for furnace break downs, suspected gas leaks, furnace overheating, or furnaces that won't start or turn off, but does not provide maintenance service to insure continuous and efficient furnace operation.

Other simple ways homeowners can conserve fuel and hold down their bills are:

— Dial Down the thermostat a few degrees during the day, and lower at night.

— Dial Down while at work or away from the home during the day, on weekends or vacations.

— Make sure furniture and curtains aren't blocking heat or cold air registers.

— Close the damper when the fireplace is not in use.

— Install storm windows and doors.

— Open curtains and draperies during the day to let the sun warm the house — close them at night.

A free, illustrated brochure detailing the forced air furnace maintenance checklist is available by calling or writing any Michigan Consolidated business office.

Homemakers to hold crafts day on Oct. 31

The Wayne County Extension Homemakers are holding a craft day Oct. 31. It will run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Garden City United Methodist Church, 6443 Merriman Road, north of Ford Road.

Minnesota Fabrics will be giving demonstrations on different crafts. There also will be tables set up by ladies from around the county, who will teach crafts you can learn to do that day. Skills range from crocheting and quilting to making things out of plastic bottles. So bring your bottles and scissors. Also there will be patterns and instructions available for a nominal fee.

There is no charge to attend, but reservations are necessary. Send reservations to Madeline Kenosian, 16660 Inkster Road, Romulus, 48174, or call 941-2296 after 3 p.m.

County's senior hot meal program gets new funding

The Wayne County Office on Aging, an agency in the 13th State Senatorial District, has been awarded a grant of more than $900,000 for its hot meals for senior citizens.

The Community Nutrition Services grant of $90,439 for fiscal 1978-79 will enable the serving of 2,955 meals.

That's the word from State Sen. William Faust (D-13th District).

The Wayne County Office on Aging will provide meals and other services to senior citizens each week-day in Wayne County, (excluding the city of Detroit). As many as 48 different locations will provide the services and meals.

Faust said it is a "blessing" that the elderly residents who might need such assistance will be able to get it on such a regular basis within the district.

"Many senior citizens rely on these meal programs for their sole nourishment. It is also their constant and most personal link with the rest of the world. I know that many will rejoice over this good news and will take advantage of the program grant meals," Faust added.

Any person age 60 and older is eligible to participate in the Community Nutrition Services Program. Income is not a factor for eligibility. There is no charge for the meal or services, however, contributions are accepted to increase meals and services so more people can participate.

If one member of a couple is over 60 but the partner is not, both still are eligible for both meals and services.

Faust commended the Community

Nutrition Services for their outstanding efforts in expanding the program and touching the lives of so many senior citizens.

The Bible has the answer

The following question-and-answer column is supplied by The Rev. Ronald Elie, pastor of Zion Missionary Church of Belleville. Those readers with questions for the pastor can contact him at Zion Missionary Church, 89 Edgemont, Belleville, 48111.

Dear Pastor Elie,

I have had a very hard life, and I think God is to blame. The Bible tells us that God hardened the heart of Pharaoh, King of Egypt. How could this have been fair? And how can it be fair to me, when He pushes me so that I'm hardened against Him?

Bitter George,
Ypsilanti

Dear George,

The Bible has the answer. God used his servant Moses to bring new light to Pharaoh as He does to all men (John 1:9). This light is like the sun, in the sense it affects different things differently. The sun melts wax and hardens clay. So it also is, in a sense, with God's spirit. When men follow the leading of the Spirit, their hearts melt and they are made tender, but if they do not listen, then their hearts will harden. This is what happened to Pharaoh. George, think about it and see if this is not what happened to you.

You see, George, the Bible also says specifically that Pharaoh hardened his own heart (Exodus 8:15; 8:32 & 9:34). Another problem George is that people often blame God for things that are brought upon them by Satan. And with this, we often find people who hardened their own hearts toward God when they should have done it against Satan. God cannot do anything but for our good the Bible tells us. If its for our bad, it comes from the Devil.

Let's be careful, George, for we do not want to be caught resisting the Spirit of God for its exceedingly dangerous thing to do. For indeed, it may lead to the hardness of heart and even eternal damnation. No wonder the Bible says: "Today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts." Hebrews 3:15.

Your Pastor

Tasteful and textured

Wheat germ bread: Delicious additions

Tasteful and textures, protein rich wheat germ bread is a main event. For smorgasbord suppers, sandwiches and snacks, a nutrition-packed wheat germ bread pairs up deliciously with meats, cheeses, spreads, fresh vegetables or whatever.

Instead of treating bread as an off hand addition to a meal, make a great tasting wheat germ loaf and rolls the basis for easy menus.

Because breads and cereals are one of the basic four food groups, they deserve some special attention. Wheat germ is the world's most nutritious natural cereal, providing high quality protein, iron, B vitamins and vitamin E. Considering that wheat germ alone contains many nutrients contributing to good health, stamina and vigor, it's no wonder that breads enriched with the golden cereal do their job so well.

The recipe for smorgasbord wheat germ bread is unusually full of great good value. Besides containing 1½ cups of vacuum-packed toasted wheat germ, it has an additional protein boost from cottage cheese and dairy sour cream. This gives the bread a moist quality and country style texture. The dough is made by the standard yeast rising method, then shaped into braided loaves or a couple dozen knotted rolls.

No one will mind sticky fingers to sample the sensational wheat germ bubble ring. When you cut into it or break it apart you'll see light and tender bubbles of yeast bread moistened with a golden butterscotch glaze. But it has hearty texture and a fresh natural flavor. This home baked from scratch recipe is done with ease. There's nothing tricky about the wheat germ yeast bread. Just follow the directions for shaping the dough and forming the ring. And be sure to sprinkle extra wheat germ and pecans in the bottom of the baking pan — this makes the delicious topping when the bread is turned out upside down.

SMORGASBORD WHEAT GERM BREAD

3 to 4 cups flour
2 packages active dry yeast
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons dill weed
1 cup dairy sour cream
1 cup small curd cottage cheese
½ cup hot tap water
3 eggs, divided
1½ cups vacuum packed regular wheat germ

Blend together 1 cup flour, undissolved yeast, sugar, salt and dill weed. Add sour cream and cottage cheese heated until lukewarm. Add hot tap water. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed 2 minutes. Scrape bowl occasionally. Add 2 eggs and 1 more cup flour. Beat at high speed 1 minute or until thick and elastic. Stir in wheat germ with wooden spoon. Then gradually stir in just enough of remaining flour (about 2 cups) to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl. Turn out onto floured surface.

Knead 5 to 8 minutes until dough is smooth and elastic. Place in large greased bowl and turn to coat top. Cover and let rise in warm, draft free place 1 hour or until doubled. Punch down. Divide dough in half. Shape into rolls or loaves. Brush lightly with oil. Cover loosely with plastic wrap. Let rise in warm place until doubled (rolls 30 to 40 minutes, loaves about 1 hour). Brush with remaining egg, well beaten. Sprinkle with additional wheat germ.

Bake in 350 degree oven. Allow 20 to 25 minutes for rolls and 25 to 30 minutes for loaves. Remove from pans immediately. Cool on rack. Makes 2 small loaves and 12 rolls.

KNOTTED ROLLS: Cut one half of dough into 12 equal portions. Shape into 7-inch strips. Twist each strip into single knot and place in greased 2½-inch muffin cups.

BRAIDED LOAVES: Divide remaining dough in half. Cut off ¼ of each part. Shape each of these small pieces into 3 pencil thin rolls. Braid. Shape large pieces into ovals. Top each loaf with braid. Place in well greased 7½ by 3½ by 2½-inch pans. Correct pan size is important for best results.

WHEAT GERM BUBBLE RING

2 packages instant blend active dry yeast
½ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¾ to 4 cups flour
1 cup warm milk (110-115 degree)
½ cup plus 2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ (regular or honey & sugar)
2 tablespoons chopped pecans
Butterscotch Sauce

Combine undissolved yeast, sugar, salt and 1½ cups flour in mixer bowl. Add warm milk and ½ cup softened butter. Beat with electric mixer at medium speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Add eggs, ¾ cup wheat germ and ½ cup flour. Beat at high speed 1 minute. With wooden spoon, gradually stir in just enough additional flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl. Turn out floured surface.

Knead 5 minutes or until dough is elastic. Place in oiled bowl, turning dough to coat. Cover. Let rise in warm, draft free place about 1 to 1½ hours or until doubled. Turn dough onto floured surface. Divide in half. Shape each portion into a 12-inch roll. Slice each roll into 12 (1-inch) pieces.

Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter in 10-inch tube pan. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons wheat germ and pecans. Arrange 12 pieces of dough in pan. Pour over half Butterscotch Sauce. Repeat dough and sauce layers. Sprinkle with remaining 2 tablespoons wheat germ. Cover! Let rise in warm place about 1 hour or until doubled.

Bake in 350 degree oven 35 to 40 minutes until golden brown. Cool in pan 5 minutes. Invert onto serving plate. Makes 1 (10-inch) ring.

BUTTERSCOTCH SAUCE: Heat to boiling ½ cup butter, ½ cup chopped pecans, ¼ cup water and 1 cup brown sugar (packed). Cool to lukewarm.

HOMEMADE WHEAT GERM HERB BREAD

5½ to 6½ cups unsifted all purpose flour
2 packages Red Star Instant Blend Dry Yeast
½ ¾ cup sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon thyme leaves, crushed
1 teaspoon marjoram leaves, crushed
1½ cups milk
½ cup water
½ cup butter or margarine
2 whole eggs
1 egg yolk
1½ cups wheat germ, regular or sugar & honey
1 egg white, beaten
1 tablespoon wheat germ

In large mixer bowl, combine 3 cups flour, yeast, sugar, salt and herbs; mix well. In saucepan, heat milk, water and butter until warm (120 degrees to 130 degrees; butter does not need to melt); add to flour mixture. Add eggs and egg yolk. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand gradually stir in one and one third cups wheat germ and enough remaining flour to make a soft dough.

Knead on floured surface until smooth and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, about 1 hour. Punch down dough, divide into 2 parts. Roll or pat each part on lightly floured surface to a 12 by 8-inch rectangle. Cut each rectangle into 2 equal 12-inch strips. Pinch edges of each strip together to make a rope. Twist 2 ropes together; seal ends and tuck under loaf. Place in well greased 8½ by 4½ by 2½-inch loaf pans. Cover; let rise 30 to 40 minutes. Lightly brush with egg white; sprinkle with 1 tablespoon wheat germ.

Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 45 minutes. Cover loosely with foil the last 5 to 10 minutes of baking. Remove from pans; cool. Makes 2 (1½-pound) loaves. (Two 9 by 5 by 3-inch loaf pans may be used.)

Study Club tours BHS additions

A tour through the new addition of Belleville High School was the highlight of the October meeting of the Women's Study Club of Belleville.

The group meet in the main lobby of the building on Oct. 11. Principal James Richendollar guided club members the "beautiful and functional" new classrooms, offices and media center.

Richendollar also met with the club in the mini-auditorium to explain the versatility of the new facilities, as well as the federal funding of the addition.

The regular business meeting was conducted by president Mrs. Gerald Miller, and refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served by a committee made up of Mrs. Bernard Boyd, Mrs. Justin Emerson, Mrs. Darryl Raymond and Mrs. Stephen Davis, chairperson.

September Days seniors membership keeps growing

Membership in the September Days Seniors is increasing daily as area seniors become better acquainted with the center and its many and varied activities.

For a minimal charge of $2 per person, seniors receive a card, entitling them to such center activities as a monthly health screening, a nutritious noonday meal served Monday through Friday, participation in adult education classes, an I D card allowing them to take advantage of discounts offered by many area businesses, an opportunity to enjoy trips, league sports, as well as many social activities.

According to Virginia Melcher, director of the senior Center, more than 400 names now make up the roster of the September Days Seniors, under the sponsorship of the Van Buren Township Board, the City of Belleville, Huron Township, Sumpter Township and the Van Buren Department of Parks and Recreation.

September Days seniors plan to take along cameras and plenty of film when they travel to Kingsville, Ont. and the Jack Miner Bird Sanctuary on Oct. 26.

Members will leave from the Van Buren Township Center on Tyler Road at 11 a.m., making their first stop at the Mushroom Farm and Colosanti's Cactus and Tropical Plants Farm near Kingsville. Luncheon will be served at Lakeshore Inn.

Then it will be on to Jack Miner's Sanctuary in time to watch the thousands of migrating Canadian geese being fed before they take off toward the Lake Erie marshes. Present plans call for the seniors to arrive back at the center at 6 p.m.

This is a popular trip and space is limited, so members are urged to call 699-7474 immediately, if they're thinking of going. There is a $10 per member charge for the trip.

The Van Buren Township Parks and Recreation Art and Crafts Fair is only 10 days away—on October 28 and 29, at the Township Hall on Tyler Road.

Seniors have been busy for many weeks gathering materials and making articles to display in the two booths they'll man at the Fair. Among the many handcrafted articles you'll find there, will be ceramics, stuffed toys, original paintings, crocheted articles, aprons, afghans, pot holders, kitchen towels, Christmas decorations, macrame items, hand knitted warm mittens, scarves and sweaters, and lots more.

The Donald Dempseys join millionaire's Copper Country party

The date was Sept. 30, and the place was the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. The occasion? The reunion of 1,500 of Percy Ross's Copper Country friends, and event that included The Donald C. Dempseys of Brevort, formerly of Belleville.

Ross, a millionaire from Minneapolis, Minn., held the party to share his financial success and wealth with his former friends. Success, for Ross, the son of immigrant parents who was raised in Laurium in the heart of the Copper Country of the Upper Peninsula, was the making and losing of two fortunes and the eventually purchase and $8 million sale of a plastics company.

Last year Ross shared his success by remembering poor children, giving gifts of new bicycles to 1,000 abandoned youngsters. This year he remembered the friends of his youth.

He invited his friends to join him for cocktails, dinner and dancing to pass and share with other party goers. Costumes are optional, but they do add to the fun.

Area seniors should call 699-7474 today to make their reservation for this first senior center party in the new recreation center. Space is limited, and we wouldn't want anyone to be left out.

September Days Seniors must show their membership card to get into the Halloween Party. Guests will pay $2.50 to attend the event.

There's time between now and Oct. 31 for seniors to become members of the September Days Center for a charge of $2 per person. Interested persons should call 699-7474 for more information about September Days membership and the Halloween Party.

the music of the Warney Ruhl Band. The 500 pennies placed on each table played an important part in selecting the winner of a Cadillac Seville, Ross gave away, according to Mrs. Dempsey, the former Louis Birk.

Partygoers also received copper bracelets, mounted with a penny dated the year of their birth, from Cartier's, Mrs. Dempsey said.

"It was quite a party and perhaps held more sentiment for me than some present," she added. "I also lived in the same town that Mr. Ross was born in and as a very young girl, I frequently cared for the Ross boys, who were infants."

"I'd ask his mother if I might take them out for a ride in their buggy."

"Little did I think in those days that one of the children would become a world renowned person."

Mrs. Dempsey went on to say that the party "was indescribable", adding that she is indebted to Ross for "I saw people with whom I grew up that I never would have seen had it not been for this occasion."

MR. and MRS. LARRY BRANAM
...Shirley Marie Day

Northern Michigan trip follows Day-Branam nuptial

A four-day honeymoon in northern Michigan followed the recent late summer nuptial of Shirley Marie Day and Larry Dean Branam, both of Belleville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day of Savage Road, Belleville; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Phil Branam of Fisher, Belleville.

For the late afternoon ceremony, held at the First United Methodist Church of Belleville and officiated by The Rev. Joy Arthur, the bride chose a white silk organza gown. Venice lace appliques accented the V-neckline as well as bordered the deep-cuffed bishop sleeves. Her full A-line skirt eased into a lace-edged chapel train.

Completing the bridal ensemble was a fingertip veil with bluser, edged in matching lace, and a cascade bouquet of white roses and miniature carnations.

More than 250 friends and relatives witnessed the 5:30 p.m. ceremony, in which Gwen Ashe was the organist and Paul Thompson the soloist.

The bride asked her sister, Karen Day of Belleville, to serve as her maid of honor. Her gown as of terra cotta colored qiana knit with matching sheer cape. Her bouquet was of mums in fall colors.

The bridesmaids were Patty Zawadzki of Ypsilanti and Mary Sylvester, friends of the bride, and Diane Branam, the groom's sister-in-law.

Their gowns were of apricot colored qiana with matching capes and bouquets.

The flowergirl was Jennifer Beck, 5, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Beck of Belleville. Her gown was of apricot and terra cotta flowered polyester with an apricot cape. She carried a basket of mums in fall colors.

The groom asked his brother, Dr. Edward Branam of Rochester, to serve as his best man. The ushers were John Day of Belleville, the bride's brother; Terrance Landoski of Belleville and Ronald Kaminskis, also of Belleville, both friends of the groom.

For the late afternoon ceremony, Mrs. Day chose a pale green qiana gown with matching wrist corsage, while Mrs. Branam wore a two-toned sheer gown, with a cream colored skirt and toast colored bodice, and a wrist corsage of tinted carnations.

A reception for the newlyweds and their 320 guests was held at the Knights of Columbus Notre Dame Hall in Wayne. The rehearsal dinner for 30 guests was held at the Branams' home.

The new Mrs. Branam is a graduate of Belleville High School and Washtenaw Community College. Her husband also is a graduate of Belleville High School and currently is attending Michigan State University in East Lansing, where he is a senior.

She is employed by Medical Arts, while he is employed at the Edward W. Sparrow Hospital, both located in Lansing, where the couple now reside.

Mrs. Lawrence (Elizabeth) Drago and Mrs. Henry (Debra) Heuser recently were enrolled in the Belleville chapter of the Women of the Moose.

Four of the officers at the Oct. 9 enrollment — junior regent Wanda Griffin, recorder Fern Koeppe, senior regent Marietta Kerner and treasurer Pamela Mills — had just been installed their offices on Sept. 25.

Mooseheart chairman Carol Beegle, recently presented the senior regent with a check for the Mooseheart Scholarship and the Mooseheart Christmas funds. Many lovely gifts were given for the children at Mooseheart and the aged a Moosehave, a spokesman said. Members can still bring gifts to the business meeting Monday.

The officers and several co-workers are attending the Michigan State convention, being held at the Lincoln Park Lodge this weekend. On Saturday the ritual will be exemplified, incorporating the many changes that have been made this year. ECKANKAR A Way Of Life

"ECKANKAR stresses that the individual is responsible for his own physical, psychic and spiritual space, and no one should interfere. Santa's elves

Santa Claus has some elves who live in the Tyler Road Elementary School. The elves are parents of youngsters attending the school, and they're working Monday evenings to stock the tables of Santa's Secret Shop. The shop is set up for youngsters to purchase presents for the special ones in their lives. Working on the project are Kay Daugherty (front row, from right), Kathy Griffith, Rose Cheedie, Linda Sheets, Trudy Kincaide, Dorothy York (back row, from left), Rita Brown, Judy Appleton, Cleve Tuebber, Nancy Williams and June Ward. — ANP photo.

Tyler Road School elves prepare for Secret Shop

Rumor has it that Santa Claus is vacationing in warmer climates than the North Pole, but his elves are hard at work at the Tyler Road Elementary School in Van Buren Township every Monday night. And the elves many of are taking their work home with them so they're prepared for the annual Santa's Secret Shop. The elves are none other than parents of students attending Tyler School, who are hoping to have at least 1,200 items for youngsters to choose from for Christmas presents this year. Everything from small dolls to stuffed pillows to small purses are being made each Monday night by parents, but planners say more volunteers are needed to insure that there will be enough holiday gift ideas at the shop. Speaking about the purpose of the Secret Shop, one spokesperson said: "It makes a child so happy to give a present that they have picked out on their own. But we need help putting all these items together." Materials and a place to make the gifts are supplied, all organizers need are more "elves". Gifts offered at the shop will start at 10 cents, so that no child will be left out, the spokesperson added, saying: "Remember, giving can mean much more than getting." So parents who want to give Santa Claus a hand this year, the place to be Monday evenings is Tyler Road School, located at 42200 Tyler Road off of Haggerty Road in Van Buren Township. The elves start working on the gifts ideas at 7 p.m.

Yuletide cards have message for charity

Area residents can lend a hand in the battle against alcoholism in the coming months by purchasing their holiday greeting cards from the National Council on Alcoholism-Greater Detroit Area.

Proceeds from the greeting card sales will help finance the council's campaign to eliminate the stigma of alcoholism and encourage persons suffering from alcoholism to seek treatment.

The council has been one of the major agencies in the effort to reduce alcoholism in the metropolitan area for more than 30 years and is supported in part by United Community Services.

The council is selling two greeting cards. One is imprinted with the message: "Peace, health and happiness throughout the coming year." The second card is imprinted with the message: "May the joy and peace of Christmas be with you today and always."

Both cards sell for $6 per box of 25 cards. Cards may be picked up at the council offices or will be shipped at a cost of $1.60 per order.

Persons wishing to assist the campaign against alcoholism by buying or selling the holiday cards may contact Mable Lenton at 273-5600.

BAHAMAS BECKON

Just 50 miles east of Palm Beach, Florida, a dazzling mosaic of tropical islands stretches southward almost to the shores of Haiti. I'm talking about the beautiful Bahamas, a string of 700 islands and 2400 cays (pronounced keys) warmed by the Gulf Stream year-round and cooled in summer by soft trade winds. These low-lying islands have become a reasonably-priced, easy-to-reach vacation mecca for thousands each year.

Wherever you go, the beauty of these islands is breathtaking. Magnificent beaches are soft-sanded and abundant and bright-colored blossoms accent the foliage. What's more, you can get to the Bahamas easily. A number of regular airlines fly regularly to Nassau, the islands' capital and to Grand Bahama (Freeport). Cruise ships make frequent stops here. Now, regular local flights go to over a dozen islands from both Nassau and Florida. This means you can choose almost any kind of vacation you want because the Bahamas vary greatly in mood and style.

All that glitters

Michael Kan, deputy director of the Detroit Institute of Arts, examines the intricate embossed designs and turquoise inlay in the gold of a false bottomed beaker. The vessel, probably used for ceremonial toasts with a maize beer, is a relic of the Chimú culture (800-1470 A.D.) of Peru. Kan, curator of the exhibition

"Peru's Golden Treasures," wears gloves to protect the delicate goldwork. The exhibition, open through Dec. 10 at the Art Institute, is comprised of 222 glittering gold objects which survived the plunder of Spanish conquistadores in the 16th century.

With Peruvian treasures

Art Institute 'glitters'

"Peru's Golden Treasures" brings 222 gleaming gold artifacts created by vanished civilizations to the Detroit Institute of Arts in a special exhibition now through Dec. 10.

This rare loan from the Museo Oro del Peru in Lima is the largest exhibition of its kind ever shown in the United States. With a significance far beyond beauty and material value, the gold objects are a tantalizing glimpse of mysterious civilizations which flourished in Peru during the 2,000 years preceding Spanish conquest in 1532.

The Inca (1300-1532 A.D.), Chimu (800-1470 A.D.), Moche (100 B.C. - 700 A.D.), Nazca (200 B.C. - 700 A.D.) and Vicus (200 B.C. - 400 A.D.) peoples left no native written records of their cultures, yet each object proves the development of an extremely sophisticated goldworking tradition.

Superb gold mummy masks and funerary gloves are highlights of the exhibition, which includes a glittering array of appealing objects — necklaces, ear spoons, beakers and dishes, pendants, tweezers, ceremonial knives, a child's boots, sculpted animal and human figures, weapons and helmets, pouches, nose and mouth ornaments.

The artifacts reveal a knowledge of hammering and embossing, molding and sheathing, soldering and welding — all techniques applied by master craftsmen to the abundant gold of Peru. The gold is worked with skill and imagination — sometimes even with humor in naturalistic details.

"Peru's Golden Treasures" is on loan from the Museo Oro del Peru, founded by Miguel Mujica

Gallo, and is presented under the auspices of the government of Peru. Organized by the American Museum of Natural History, New York, the exhibition is supported by an indemnity from the Federal Council on the Arts and Humanities.

"Peru's Golden Treasures" will be seen at the Art Institute through Dec. 10 during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday, closed Mondays; election day, Nov. 7, and Thanksgiving, Nov. 23.

Admission to "Peru's Golden Treasures" is $2.75; senior citizens and students with ID, $1.75, and children under 12 accompanied by adult, free. Groups of 20 or more persons are asked to make advance arrangements by writing or telephoning Sandra Austin, performing arts department, the Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward Ave., Detroit or call 832-2731.

The national attitude

The wage-earnings mother: Has she been misjudged?

Most women feel guilty about working and hate their jobs, right? Nonsense! Or so say the findings of the first national attitude survey conducted exclusively among wage-earning mothers.

How do women feel about working? Ninety-seven percent of the respondents indicated they liked their job; 88 percent were proud of being a working mother; and 84 percent felt they were more stimulating people because they worked. Women interviewed comprised a sample representing 6,750,000 households nationally.

In a presentation of survey highlights, A.C. Nielsen Co. representative John C. Stermer, who supervised the study, cited findings that disproved commonly-held beliefs about the "plight" of the wage-earning mother.

One popular notion has it that working mothers feel guilty about their children. But 86 percent of those queried indicated they felt working was good for their children, who frequently asked Mom about her job.

An unexpected benefit of working mentioned by 61 percent of the women was the fact they were more tolerant of both husband and children. The entire family appears to be reaping benefits when Mom goes to work.

A majority of respondents (55 percent) felt they did more things as a family since they began working, and 83 percent mentioned that, if at all possible, they tried to eat dinner together. A significant 92 percent of the wage-earning mothers participating in the survey said their husbands now shared in child-raising responsibilities.

Most working mothers (84 percent) said their husbands were interested in their work. This finding was most prevalent in households where the mother held a professional or sales-managerial position and viewed her employment as a career. Financial decisions also are made in tandem by husband and wife.

Although the husbands and children of respondents pitched in to help maintain the household, 85 percent of the women still felt traditional chores, such as grocery shopping, cooking, cleaning, bill paying and chauffeuring the children, were primarily their responsibility. When the time crunch was on, women said they would let the housework slide and tend to their personal relationships and social activities first.

The respondents fell into three basic categories — those caught in the time crunch, mother nurture types and the charge it group. Women caught in the time crunch were high conscious of time constraints imposed by employment. They wanted more time to themselves and felt not enough time was spent with their children, husbands or taking care of household activities. These women were mostly younger working mothers with preschool age children.

Women in the mother nurture category were highly concerned with family health and the nutritional value of foods consumed. These women had higher educational backgrounds and held professional or sales-managerial occupations.

The third group, dubbed charge it, made use of credit or charge cards as a normal way of life, not for any convenience reasons. Credit card use was viewed as the norm, a replacement for cash or checks. Many working mothers in this sector had completed or attended college and were working in professional or sales-managerial fields.

Why do women work? Forty percent of the respondents indicated the primary reason for employment was the fact their family needed the money. Twenty percent worked because their wages permitted them to purchase extra luxuries. But another group (19 percent) cited personal fulfillment as the motivator, a significant reason which has surfaced only recently.

College-educated women with professional or sales-managerial occupations were most likely to pursue a career for personal fulfillment. They viewed employment as a career, not "just a job," and indicated the intent to work until retirement age.

Stermer noted that "turn about has become fair play."

"It used to be the working mother who justified her position to family and friends. It appears that now, and in the future, it will be the non-working mother who feels compelled to do so," he said.

'Soft Touch'

'Soft Touch' will perform at Elaine Rishel benefit

A talented, and versatile group of young musicians, aptly named "Soft Touch", will be the entertainment highlight of the Elaine Rishel Benefit Dance, planned for Friday from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight at the Progressive Hall in Romulus.

The group has volunteered its services for the benefit, which will raise money to meet the medical expenses of 11-year-old Elaine Rishel, a kidney transplant patient.

The plight of the family recently came to the attention of Romulus residents. The youngster, a fifth grader at Merriman Elementary School, received a kidney transplant from her sister, but a short time after the operation, her father went on strike and lost his medical insurance. The Rishels face more than $60,000 in medical expenses because of the loss.

Soft Touch performs everything from polkas to disco tunes, with an entire set devoted to the music of the 1950s made popular by such greats as Buddy Holly and Elvis Presley.

The band is led by lead vocalist Adolph Cwik, who serves as a mental health specialist during the day at Heritage Hospital in Taylor.

Lead guitar and backup vocalist is Randy Scott, 18, a music instructor at Anderson Music Company in Livonia, who also finds time to major in pre-dentistry at Eastern Michigan University.

The lone female in the group and keyboard specialist is 19-year-old Sandy Haley, who also is majoring in pre-dentistry at Eastern.

where he is studying mechanical drafting.

The group has been together for only 1½ years, but has appeared at such well-known spots as the Radisson Cadillac Hotel in Detroit and Fairlane Manor in Dearborn.

Tickets for the benefit dance cost $7.50 per person, and include a light luncheon, beer, set-ups and door prizes. To obtain tickets call Johnnie Johnson at 941-0088, Jo Canejo at 941-1928 or Mayor William Oakley's office at 941-0666.

Checks should be made payable to the Elaine Rishel Fund Trust. Donations can be sent to the trust at Manufacturer's Bank, 36450 Goddard Road, Romulus.

The Progressive Hall is located at the corner of Ozga Road and Five Points.

Moose members attend convention

Several officers and members of the Belleville Moose Lodge 934 will be attending the Moose State Convention, slated for this weekend in Lincoln Park.

Adding to the busy weekend will be an enrollment of new members, which will be at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the lodge home. Dinner will be followed by dancing.

Now that baseball and golf are behind the Lodge, pool and bowling teams are in full swing. There are 16 teams from local lodges competing every Thursday night. Check with Ray Coron, if you are interested. There are 13 bowling teams in various leagues in the community. Any Moose bowler who wishes to enter the Michigan state bowling tournament, which is being held at Lansing, beginning Feb. 17 and ending May 20, contact Ed (Sparky) Brendke. All entries must be in by Oct. 31. You must be a paid up Moose member to enter.

Civic Affairs chairman Doug Harden is making big plans for the annual Halloween party for the children of the community. It will be held at the Moose Lodge, 461 E. Huron River Drive, on Oct. 31 at 6 p.m. Local merchants are helping by donating dogs and buns for the occasion. There also will be cider and prizes for the best costumes. The Halloween dance with prizes for costumes for the adults will be held on Oct. 28.

Cook-off winner is easy dinner

Are you looking for an easy recipe for dinner tonight? If so, then the winning recipe for the 1978 Michigan Beef Cook-Off is just for you. It's called "Mamma's Pot Roast with Dill" and it is really a winner in many ways — it's easy to prepare, uses an economical cut of beef, and has a new flavor twist combining beef, dill, and ginger ale.

It all started back in early summer when Mrs. Lea Aronson of Southfield entered her recipe in the Michigan Beef Cook-Off. From over 100 entries, she was selected as a finalist. Individuals and their recipes competed in five regional programs in Michigan. Then regional winners came to the Michigan State Fair for the final cooking competition and the real test of the product.

All the contest recipes focused on the use of economical cuts of beef and practical ways for consumers to prepare the.

WESTLAND'S SENIOR CITIZENS

6 P.M. - 11 P.M.

Are you going to vote for higher taxes on November 7?

The Levin Record:

1. RAISE YOUR COMMUTER INCOME TAXES

"I urge vigorous and persistent efforts by our Council and Mayor to obtain from the legislature the right for Detroit to tax non-residents working in Detroit at the same rate as residents."

— Carl Levin

Detroit News

2. RAISE YOUR SALES TAXES

"He (Levin) urged... an increase in the state tax on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages which would raise an extra $40 million a year for Detroit..."

Detroit News
March 5, 1976

3. RAISE YOUR INCOME AND PROPERTY TAXES WITHOUT YOUR CONSENT

Detroit City Council Resolution: "Therefore be it resolved that the Detroit City Council go on record as opposed to an increase in the property or income taxes for the Detroit schools without the approval of a referendum vote of the Detroit voters." (LEVIN VOTED NO)

Detroit Legal News
March 8, 1973

I'd like to see higher taxes and a lot more give-away programs. I think Levin can do the job.

The Griffin Record:

1. CUT YOUR INCOME TAXES

Senator Griffin, who favors a constitutional amendment to require the Federal government to balance its budget, is co-sponsor of legislation to cut individual income taxes an average of 30% over a period of three years. Taxes for a family of four earning $10,000 would be cut by 50%, earning $20,000 by 35%, and earning $40,000 by 34%.

S. 1860 introduced
July 14, 1977.

2. CUT YOUR INFLATION LOSSES

Senator Griffin is pushing hard for legislation to end government "taxflation." As it is now, a pay raise that is supposed to keep a worker even with inflation just winds up shoving him into a higher tax bracket. The Griffin-Hart proposal would automatically adjust the tax tables each year to offset inflation.

Proposed April 28, 1977 and August 25, 1978.

3. CUT YOUR EDUCATION COSTS

Senator Griffin has been fighting hard for tuition tax credits to relieve education costs. He thinks it's time the middle income family finally got a break.

I'm against higher taxes and inflation. I'm for Senator Griffin.

Glenn stopped inch short of glory

7,000 see Westlanders booted out of first place by North

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

John Glenn missed by inches and North Farmington won by a foot. That's probably the best way to sum up the Raiders 9-7 win over the Rockets Friday night in their Northwest Suburban League grid showdown played before the largest crowd to see a Glenn football game. Trailing 9-7 with two minutes left in the third quarter, Glenn put on a thrilling march that rung up five consecutive first downs and carried down to the North Farmington three yard line.

On third-and-three to go for the touchdown, tailback Tim Ruark burst into the line, found a small hole and lunged for the final white stripe. In the huge pile of players, it looked like Ruark might have cracked the plane of the goal line.

However, the officials marked the ball inches short and Glenn Coach Chuck Gordon called on Kal DeLuca for a 21-yard field goal, instead of going for the touchdown.

The snap from center was low and rolled on the ground. Holder Ed Hamel scooped up the ball and pivoted toward the left sidelines. He shook off a tackler before lofting a pass into the endzone.

The Homecoming crowd of 7,000

screamed wildly as a red-shirted Rocket player caught the pass in the endzone for an apparent touchdown.

But the cheering ended abruptly when the crowd saw it was an interior lineman — an ineligible receiver — who had caught the ball. Glenn was penalized on the play and lost the ball to North Farmington on the infraction.

Glenn got right down to the goal line but couldn't score — that was the "inches" they lost by.

North Farmington, trailing 7-6 at halftime, took their eventual margin of victory on the right toe of Tim Quinn, who booted a 21-yard field goal with 2:50 left in the third quarter.

Thus, the "foot" the Raiders won by.

The crucial battle was all that the 7,000 fans had hoped for — except the eventual winner. Both defenses played extremely well. Glenn's Rockets made four turnovers — three pass interceptions and a fumble — in the first half but only yielded six points.

Raider defensive back Jim Minhinnett picked off a deflected pass from Glenn quarterback Rob Suida on the Rocket 30 yard line and

The Stokes affair

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

And whenever one does, there usually is a good reason.

Pat Stokes, Belleville High's head football coach, left the Tigers in mid-stream, specifically, after the 66-0 debacle against Plymouth Salem, the worst football defeat in Belleville's recent history.

In fact, according to my records, Belleville hasn't won a football game since late October of 1976 when the Tigers shut out Redford Union 18-0.

PAT STOKES

Thus, 17 games ago, Belleville knew what it was like to win on the gridiron.

And, Friday night when the Tigers play Livonia Bentley they have a realistic opportunity to end the drought, if they don't that streak could reach 20 — the longest Class A losing streak in the area — maybe the state.

In such cases, it is easy to pin the responsibility of the losses on one man — the head coach. And many of the Belleville fans believe that Stokes was the man to blame for the team's failure.

I can't agree with them.

Having covered the local scene for nearly 15 years, Belleville's grid fortunes have been on a steady decline even though the school has produced some of the nation's top talent such as Keith Simmons who captained the University of Minnesota team and Frank Nunley of University of Michigan and San Francisco 49ers fame.

Athletic programs are not built in one day or one season — they are not built by one person — they are the summation of many people, many groups pulling together, usually in one direction.

The football traditions at Westland John Glenn, Plymouth Salem, Livonia Franklin, and Livonia Churchill were not established overnight as coaches Chuck Gordon, Tom Moshimer, Armand Vigna, Ken Kaestner will tell you and I'm willing to bet that these men will also say that if they didn't have the excellent support of their communities and their assistant coaches they would never be able to field contenders each fall.

It took me 1½ hours to get out of the parking lot at Westland John Glenn Friday night.

And that was beautiful.

There were some 7,000 fans at that game between North Farmington and Glenn — that's how football has matured in these parts. One man's doing?

No way.

Belleville fans, according to some reports that have come across this desk, even threatened Stokes and his family and that, sirs, is a new low. Though Stokes doesn't wish to comment, he felt it was best to leave at this point to give the administration an opportunity to look for a new man.

Ron Hellier, in his first year as athletic director at Belleville, said they are in the market for a new head coach but the screening won't be done until after the season.

"At present, the three assistant coaches will be working as a committee and handling the responsibilities of fielding our team," said Hellier. "Coach Stokes indicated to us that for the betterment of the program, it would be best for him to resign now."

"Though I am new here I have found our staff very sincere and devoted to their jobs and Pat is a very down to earth and honest person. He felt the welfare of the kids came first and that a new coach would be a fresh start for the team."

And there is something those kids can do for their ex-coach — BEAT BENTLEY.

Belleville Cougar fans, attention

If you have a ticket for the 50-50 Cougar drawing, please don't throw it away, it's still valid.

The drawing, which was originally scheduled to be held October 14, wasn't held because of the cancellation of the Cougar home game.

Cougar officials announced this week that they'll hold the drawing the next Belleville Cougar home game which is slated for Oct. 28, according to committee chairpersons Mary Brown and John Nitt.

Nemesis Franklin is next

Despite its heroics last week against North Farmington and a 5-1 over-all record, Westland John Glenn could find themselves no better than a third place team in the Northwest Suburban football conference.

The co-champs will meet Livonia Franklin at 2 p.m. Saturday and a Rocket loss would plummet Coach Chuck Gordon's minions to third place, a spot they haven't occupied for many years.

Franklin is licking the wounds of two consecutive losses — to North and Pontiac Central — a situation it was in last year when it took on and humbled the Westlanders in a championship game that forced Glenn to hand over half of the title.

Jerry Cifor, who scored two touchdowns and rushed for 200 yards in last year's confrontation, is back in the Patriots' backfield — and you can bet that Gordon and his players haven't forgotten Cifor's brilliant performance of a year ago.

"Glenn has an excellent team as good as North Farmington," said Franklin Coach Armand Vigna. "We are going to have to play a truly inspired game to win and equally important we're going to have to stop making such fatal mistakes in our pass coverage and fumbles."

A combination of turnovers and mental errors paved the way to Franklin's 16-12 demise at Pontiac Central last week. The Patriots committed four fumbles which set

Easy win for Wayne gal cagers

Leaping to a 17-8 first period lead, Wayne Memorial's girls' cage team went on to destroy Garden City West 62-23 in a nonleague basketball game last Thursday.

Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras chalked up their fourth victory in seven starts and launched the Great Lakes 8 Conference campaign Tuesday night at home to Fordson. They'll play Lincoln Park on Thursday at 6 p.m.

Wayne had a comfortable 34-12 edge over West at halftime and the outcome of the game was never in doubt after the first half. The Zebras outscored their rivals 16-10 and 12-1 in the last two periods.

Peggy Stevens tossed in 16 points and teammate Theresa Callegari added 14 to lead the winners who had 10 players reach the scoring column.

Schwartz singled out Monroe as the pre-season conference title favorite, but added, "that I feel we will be in contention if we can steadily improve."

Pictures can be deceiving as the one above where North Farmington end Ron Nutter (42) has what appears to be a pass reception. But Glenn's Greg Houfley came up just in time with a jarring tackle that forced the Raider end to lose the ball. But the game spelled doom for Westland to repeat as the Northwest Suburban champ as North wound up atop of a 9-7 score and the standings with a perfect 4-0 record. Glenn is presently tied for second with arch-rival, Livonia Franklin, and they will settle who is second best on Saturday during Franklin's homecoming.

Got it, coach!

John Glenn's Bob Shinske gets an ear full from defensive coordinator Dan Henry during a brief skull session Friday night. Shinske and the Rockets played a sterling defensive game against the No. 2 Class A state ranked North Farmington and lost a cliffhanger 9-7 before the largest crowd ever to view a Glenn football game. The estimated 7,000 fans didn't go home disappointed though. The Rockets held the undefeated Raiders to one touchdown and at one point led 7-0. Glenn travels to Livonia Franklin on Saturday for its final Northwest Suburban Conference game of the 1978 season.

A shockwave in the form of unexpected losses left defending champ, Extra Point Bar, as the lone undefeated Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey League team.

Two games into the 1978 campaign all but the champs have at least one loss tainting their record.

The barmen picked up their second victory by subduing Brooks' Homes, 5-1. The champs erupted for four goals in the third period to break open what was a close game until then.

Five different players scored for the winners with Larry Kaifesh, Ken Beal, Ray Erickson, Mari Borycki and Mike Villemure each tallying.

Art Cazabon had two goals which helped Futurama Engineers turn back winless Huron Valley Total, 6-2. Ed Ross, Tom Bryan, Bill Kesky and Keith Muddaugh also scored for the winners.

John Colligan and Jack Bockstay accounted for Huron's goals.

Johnson Carbonic notched its first win of the season behind two first period goals and some excellent goaltending by Don Smith who edged Jack's Sports Center 2-1. A third period goal by Jerry Grube ruined the shutout.

Four Seasons scored a goal in each period and secured a 3-2 victory over Tastee Freez. Phil Cerne was the scoring leader with a pair of goals while Ron Wojewshke added the decisive tally. Norm Beasley carded both Tastee Freez goals.

The skaters will be back on the ice Sunday night with Extra Point going

Mandle's super effort wasted

Chiefs fall to Harrison

By ERIC GEARNES
Special to ANP

Walled Lake Western will have to come up with their best defense of the year Friday Night if they hope to stop the Canton Chiefs and Rusty Mandle from a third place finish in the Western-Six Football league. Mandle ran for 139 yards in 19 carries and outrushed the entire Farmington Harrison team last Saturday, but the Chiefs still lost to the Hawks 14-8.

The Chiefs once again showed a solid defense against the rush, holding Harrison to 112 yards in 47 carries. But the Canton pass defense left a lot to be desired as the Hawks were good on five of seven for 101 yards and two touchdowns.

Harrison scored on their opening drive marching 70 yards in 13 plays. The touchdown came on a pass from Quarterback Drew Norton to Jon Brancheau from nine yards out with 1:42 remaining in the first quarter.

The remainder of the first half belonged to the defenses and punters with neither team really threatening and the half ended with Harrison on top 7-0.

The Hawks took the third quarter kickoff and started a concerted drive up the field with senior fullback Dave Turnquist carrying the ball seven times. But the Canton defense stiffened and with third and 20 Brancheau hit Turnquist with a 45 yard halfback pass to move the Hawks to the Canton five.

With 2:45 remaining in the third stanza Norton once again hit Brancheau in the end zone from five yards out. The point after gave Harrison a 14-0 bulge.

For the remaining of the period neither team was able to move the ball consistently and the quarter ended with Harrison still on top.

Canton got a big break early in the last period as Chief sophomore defensive end Craig Geary blocked a Harrison punt and recovered it at midfield.

However the Hawk defense threw Chief quarterback Scott Dawson for losses on two straight sacks and Canton was forced to give up the football.

After a Harrison punt Canton began to move the ball with Mandle carrying the ball most of the way as the Chief offensive line began to move well off the ball.

With 5:42 remaining in the first half Mandle blew through a big hole opened by Charlie Nyhus and Russ Schumann and rambled 50 yards for a Canton TD.

Steve Gray scored the twopoint conversion on an outstanding catch of a Dawson pass, and the Chiefs were within six 14-8.

However the Chiefs were unable to get the ball back as Harrison controlled the ball on the ground with Turnquist carrying, and picked up a key first down on another Norton to Brancheau pass and the Hawks had their fifth victory with only one setback.

The loss evened Canton's record at 3-3 on the season.

Canton Coach Dave Schuele was disappointed in the loss, but happy with the team's overall performance. "We played well enough to win but a couple of mental errors cost us the game," said the Chief Mentor. "We worked all week on stopping that halfback pass and they still got away with it," added Schuele.

Canton will go after their fourth win Friday night as they travel to Walled Lake Western. Mandle will be attempting to become the first ever 1000 yard rusher at Canton in the remaining three games and has a good shot with already having gathered 787 yards on the season.

Zebras whip Fordson

Glenn, Wayne tankers go 1-2 at Belleville relays

It took a valiant team effort in the 400-yard freestyle relay for Westland John Glenn to pull out a narrow one-point victory over neighborhood rival, Wayne Memorial, at the annual Belleville High Swimming & Diving Relays held last week.

The Westlanders garnered 34 points, one point more than Wayne, to emerge with the team championship. Host Belleville finished third with 17 points, while Lincoln Park swimmers finished fifth with a total of 13 points.

Meanwhile, Wayne's title express in the Great Lakes 8 Conference picked up momentum as Coach Jim McPartlin's swimmers dunked Fordson 52-31 for their second consecutive league and fifth win against no losses on the year.

Wayne is seeking an unprecedented fourth Great Lakes 8 title and Monroe apparently is the main threat now for the Zebras who will meet the pretender to the throne on October 26.

Wayne picked up seven of the 11 first places over Fordson but McPartlin revealed that he had an opportunity to use many of his younger swimmers in this meet.

"Fordson is not as strong as they have been in the past," said Coach McPartlin, "so I had a chance to swim younger members of the club in different events."

However, McPartlin views Monroe as a "serious threat to our title plans because they have an excellent group of sophomores over there - but we do have one thing in our favor and that's our experience."

Ypsi humbles Romulus

Despite a sterling 23 point scoring performance by Carol Roberson, Romulus dropped a 56-46 girls' basketball game to Ypsilanti last week.

One of the reasons for the Eagles' downfall was their inability to put a point on the scoreboard in the second period.

"Our inexperience is showing," said Coach Mary Sharpe, "we had the jitters and that led to poor shooting and turnovers."

Miss Roberson sank 14 of her game high 23 points in the fourth period, but Ypsi had already done the damage by turning a 20-14 first period lead to a 24-14 and 42-23 lead after three periods.

Romulus takes a 4-2 record into this week's action and they met Ypsi Lincoln Monday and follow up with Willow Run on Tuesday.

Patriots jolted by Pontiac

Nemesis Franklin awaits once-beaten John Glenn

"Someone, somewhere breaks down during a crucial point and that's been killing us this season," Vigna pointed out.

Franklin "gave" Central a first quarter touchdown with their first turnover - a fumble that Pontiac recovered on the Patriot 37. In eight plays, the hosts scored on Tom Jefferson's two-yard plunge and the hosts also kicked the extra point, making it a 7-0 ballgame.

Franklin came back with an eight-play series which looked like it would take them all the way, but they stalled out at the Central 27 and Don Boka was called on for a field goal and he gave the Patriots their first three points early in the second quarter.

Central cashed in on an offside penalty during the closing seconds of the first half to widen the gap to 13-3. With less than 15 seconds left, Franklin was accused on an offside on a fourth down and Central retained the ball and got a first down. They went to the aid and connected on a 61-yarder for a touchdown.

"Needless to say, instead of going into the locker room with a 7-3 deficit to think about, we now had to worry about making up a 13-3 deficit. However, I have to give our kids credit for not quitting - they came back and outplayed them in the second half. In fact, we gave them only 23 yards rushing and six passing during the entire second half," noted Vigna.

Franklin closed the gap early in the third quarter when quarterback Jon McCarthy engineered a 12-play drive which included Cifor's excellent running skills and a 12-yard run by Herb McMannaway.

But the Pats found the going rough inside the Central 20 and on a fourth down called on Boka again and he responded with a 39-yard field goal, cutting the Central margin (13-6).

With 7:35 left in the third quarter, the defenses took over. After trading a couple of punts, Boka pinned Central to its goal line with a 39 yard punt and Central attempted to get out of the precarious situation via a punt that gave Franklin excellent field position.

Cifor provided the key play, a 24-yard run which set up McCarthy's eight yard touchdown run.

But Boka missed the extra point, leaving the Patriots shy one point of tying the score.

Franklin gave Central another present when it fumbled on its own 10 late in the ball game and the hosts cashed that in for a 28-yard field goal.

Franklin fumbled the ball over to Central on the Patriots' 10 and despite the defensive heroics of linebacker Doug White and Tim Sullivan who stopped a pair of sweep, Pontiac eventually got on the board by a 28-yard field goal.

With 3:31 left, McCarthy put on a 13 play show that left the Patriots standing at the Central 15 when time caught up to them.

Trojans blank Zebras, 10-0

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Though it took some convincing because of a stubborn Wayne defense, Monroe eventually made it clear to Coach Floyd Carter's entourage Friday night that they are the heir-apparent to Fordson's Great Lakes 8 Conference football crown.

Wayne stubbornly refused to admit it and battled the host Trojans until the final gun before surrendering a 10-0 decision that all but wraps up the championship for Monroe. Monroe, earlier in the season, beat the defending champ. It was Wayne's second consecutive league setback and the Zebras' league record dipped to 3-2 and in order to avoid the abyss that the local gridders seemingly fall into during the stretch each year, Carter must find a way to stop Wyandotte Friday night. Wyandotte, for some strange reason, has been successful against Wayne grid teams in the past. Carter said he was disappointed with the outcome of the game but not with his players.

"I felt we outplayed them," Carter said, in fact, I felt we should have won. We certainly had our chances." Playing before a Monroe homecoming crowd, Wayne struck first but unfortunately the Zebras were burned by an infraction that caused them a first quarter touchdown. Early in the first period, senior quarterback Mark Korte broke loose for a 60-yard touchdown run, but it was nullified because of a clip. That penalty spelled doom and broke the trancelike Trojan defense which managed to come up with the key play to stop any further Wayne threats despite the valiant efforts of runningback Ed Turbeville and Rick Rogers. Wayne drove inside the Trojan 20-yard line in the second quarter and gave up on trying to cross the goal line when they were penalized on a fourth down and a couple of yards to go situation. That prompted Carter to call out Skip Walker for a field goal and he missed from 38 yards out. Monroe came back with a field goal of its own in the second quarter and made the 3-0 count stand up until the final seconds when the Trojans scored a touchdown in the waning minutes of the game.

Dave Lusk gave Wayne an excellent opportunity to score when he recovered a Monroe fumble at the Trojan 35, but on the first play from scrimmage the Zebras gave the ball back via an interception.

Midway in the fourth quarter Wayne looked as if it would get the six go-ahead points when the Zebras drove from midfield to the Trojan 12 where again the Monroe defenses put up a stonewall and again Wayne was forced to attempt a field goal and again Walker was frustrated when the line collapsed and his attempt was blocked.

Lusk, who counted six solos and eight assists, along with tackle Bill Wilson and linebacker Mike Mason, worked overtime against the stronger and faster Monroe club. Turbeville picked up 65 of his team's 143 total yards in six attempts while Rogers gained 25 yards.

But, statistically, Monroe had the edge in first downs 15-8 and total yards 308 to 143. Korte, usually deadly with his passes, was a mere four of 17 for 40 yards while Monroe connected on seven of 21 aerials for 126 yards.

"It's very upsetting to lose a game like this," Carter pointed out, "especially when you know that your kids played their hearts out and outplayed them."

Over the pile

Tim Quinn's third quarter field goal was the margin of victory for North Farmington Friday night as the Raiders knocked John Glenn from the undefeated ranks with a pulse-pounding 9-7 victory. Quinn's wobbly 21-yarder barely made it over the bar but not before Glenn tackle Dan O'Brien (75), Jim Denaray, lunging forward at the right with left hand raised, and teammates made an all-out effort to block the kick. Blocking in the line for North Farmington are tackle Dan Deacon (74), guard Dan Cohen (64) and tight end Tom Herrington (84).

Cherry Hill edges Kennedy

Green's 28-yard field goal keeps Spartan hopes 'alive'

Though Cherry Hill's dreams of capturing its first Tri-River Conference football championship is dimming with each weekend, Coach Jerry Pawloski's Spartans still may make it into the post-season playoffs despite a loss on their record.

Pawloski and his troops, though, will need some help from Robichaud who apparently have lost their winning touch. Robichaud will meet Melvindale in the season's finale and Coach Bob Yauck can do the people north of Michigan Ave. a big favor by whipping the Cardinals.

If that should happen, then both Melvindale and Cherry Hill will have one loss, however, Cherry Hill may reap the benefit of playing four Class A schools and the bonus points from victories over these schools may just put them into the Class B regional playoffs.

"There is still a chance for us to make the playoffs," said Pawloski,

"but everything will have to fall into place. I doubt if Melvindale will lose its final two league games, but Robichaud could upset them.

"However, we would also have to win our final three - Garden City, Crestwood and Clarenceville," pointed out Pawloski, "another loss would all but kill our chances."

Darnell Green kept the Spartans in contention last week as he connected on a 28-yard field goal with 1:45 left in the game to lift Cherry Hill past Taylor Kennedy by a slim 3-0 margin.

Kennedy has always been a thorn in Cherry Hill's grid sides. It is the first time in recent years that the Spartans had jarred their league rivals and the victory boosted their over-all record to 5-1 (their best ever) on the season.

Cherry Hill was pounding on the Kennedy goal line most of the game but couldn't find the big play to go in.

Late in the game they launched an attack from their own 18 and went to Kennedy 11 where the drive stalled. Though Tom Minor is the regular Spartan kicker, Pawloski called on Green for the "last chance" boot and Green didn't miss the opportunity. Minor had an earlier attempt, a 24-yarder that just fell short of the uprights with five minutes left in the game.

Minor and Floyd Simmons were instrumental in stopping two separate Kennedy drives when they picked off passes, while tackles Bob Tamm and Bob Kosciolicki were the thrusts that kept the Kennedy ground game in check.

"Tamm and Kocielicki were responsible for putting a whole lot of pressure on the Kennedy quarterback and that's one reason why we played in Kennedy's backyard most of the game, unfortunately, we just couldn't get on the scoreboard," said Pawloski.

Out of reach

John Glenn's defensive backs played magnificently the entire game against North Farmington, allowing only two pass completions in 12 attempts by Raider quarterback Greg Goldstein. This pass intended for left end Mike Thompson just fell outside his reach as Glenn's Jim Hendrian (33) and other unidentified Rocket pursue the pass receiver.

Thompson was also North's punter and it was the senior's 56-yard kick in the final quarter that pinned the Rockets deep in their own territory and enabled the No. 2 ranked team in the state to hold on for their exciting 9-7 victory over the defending Northwest Suburban Conference co-champs.

They're 7-0 in SAC

Robichaud woos CC title

Undefeated Dearborn Heights Robichaud stretched its winning streak to seven last week as Coach Jim Hadley's Bulldogs spun by Highland Park and arch-rival Inkster.

The two wins puts the Dearborn Heights harriers within reach of the Suburban Athletic Conference championship for the first time since the league's inception six years ago.

"This is definitely our best team," said Hadley, "and I feel if we can just find a fifth man we'd be in contention for the regional title."

The SAC teams will gather October 25 to fight it out for the conference championship and the Bulldogs would have to finish lower than third or lower to jeopardize their title status.

Meanwhile, Robichaud will tune up for the league with a couple of nonleaguers - meeting Clarenceville Tuesday afternoon, then taking on Willow Run on Thursday. Only Clarenceville, traditionally a strong cross country school, could endanger the Bulldogs' winning streak.

Terry Ross led the Robichaud "slam" against the Parkers as he turned in a 16:26 and led teammates Bruce Brock, Mike Drazga, William Rigsby and George Drayton to the wire. The Parkers nailed down the sixth and seventh places, then Jim Stanek and Marty English finished eighth and ninth for the Dearborn Heights' team.

Last Tuesday Brock set the pace against Inkster as he churned out a 15:21 to lift the Bulldogs to an easy 15-48 triumph over the Vikings. Ross was second, while Drazga, Rigsby and Arthur Chambers followed in third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

Calvin is 1-2.

Schieda shines at Adrian

Romulus sophomore Joe Schieda and Stockbridge freshman Tom Eddington produced their best times in Adrian College's 19-42 loss to Calvin College in a MIAA (Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association) dual meet Tuesday (Oct. 10).

Schieda toured the five-mile course around the Adrian campus in 27:51 to finish fourth. Eddington followed in fifth with a 27:54 clocking.

Other Bulldog scoring runners were Garden City sophomore Mark Boyd, tenth, 28:38; Romulus freshman Steve Zimmerman, eleventh, 30:30; and Roseville freshman Mike Pehur, twelfth, 32:30.

Calvin's Doug Diekema and Phil Vannette crossed the finish line first in 27:05. Adrian is winless in two MIAA dual meets.

Trenton stuns Salem, 21-16

BY ERIC GEARNES
Special to ANP

And now Plymouth Salem, the defending Suburban 8 Conference football champs, can only wait, hope and win.

Coach Tom Moshimer and his Rocks find themselves up against the wall after losing a cliffhanger to undefeated Trenton 21-16 last week.

The victory provided the highly-regarded Trenton with sole possession of first place in the conference and forces Salem in a must situation at Edsel Ford Friday afternoon where the Rocks have to win in order to stay alive in the title and post-season playoff race.

Salem has to hope that Dearborn, a team that they beat earlier, can knock off Trenton.

And only time will indicate the variables.

Meanwhile, the Trojans got the job done last week as they snapped a 11-game Salem conference victory string and also handed the Rocks their first setback this year in five starts.

"We knew that they were tough," said Moshimer, "and they (Trenton) were the pre-season favorites to win it all, but it's not all over yet. A lot can happen in this league as anyone who has followed it will tell you."

Salem spotted Trenton a two-touchdown lead in the first quarter, then tried unsuccessfully to catch up. After Plymouth's Craig Stack fumbled the opening kickoff at midfield, the Trojans recovered and marched 50 yards in 13 plays with quarterback Brian Tabin sneaking in for the touchdown with 5:27 left in the quarter.

Stack returned the ensuing kickoff to the Salem 28, but on the first play from scrimmage a mixup in the backfield caused another fumble and Trenton again capitalized on the situation.

Tabin took only four plays to negotiate the 28 yards which culminated in a 20-yard scoring toss to Bob Riopelle. Tabin's kick put the Trojans up by 14 with 3:18 still remaining in the initial quarter.

All-State quarterback Rich Hewlett then took over for the Rocks and moved his teammates 76 yards in eight plays, getting Salem on the board with a 26-yard pass to Stack.

Rick Hanschu's conversion narrowed the gap to seven with 11:55 in the first half.

On the kickoff, Hanschu drove the Trojans deep and the Salem coverage stopped Trenton on its own three.

On the very next play, Dave Wilcox tackled Trojan ballcarrier Jerry Matawiejezyk in the endzone and Salem trailed by five.

Trenton scored what proved to be the decisive touchdown in the third quarter as Matawiejezyk redeemed himself with a seven-yard touchdown sprint which polished off a 27-yard drive with 0:28 left to intermission.

Hewlett brought the Rocks back to within five in the final stanza with a 12-yard scoring strike to Mike Prchlik with 9:40 left in the game.

But Trenton controlled the ball almost all of the rest of the game and Salem couldn't retaliate.

Hewlett now has run for 10 touchdowns and passed for three in the Rock's first six games.

Matawiejezyk led the Trojans with 146 yards in 27 carries, while Stack had 102 yards in 10 rushes for the losers.

"Trenton ran a wide variety of offenses and utilized a lot of defenses against us - and I feel they are as good, if not better, than their undefeated team of 1975."

Salem still has an outside chance of sneaking into the Class A state playoffs but they must beat a strong Edsel Ford team in Dearborn, winless Bentley and Western Six non-league rival, Farmington Harrison, in the stretch.

In addition, the Rocks have to hope that North Farmington, Detroit Northwestern and Livonia Churchill is dumped on the way.

"We have to win, that's all there is to it," Moshimer said.

Bentley gridders are last chance for Belleville

The last time Belleville High won a football game was 18 games ago when it shut out Redford Union 18-0 in October of 1976.

And, Friday night, the Tigers will take an 18-game losing streak into their Suburban 8 Conference game with Livonia Bentley, a team that also hasn't won a game this season.

"If we don't do it now," said Tom Fielder, assistant football coach, "I'd hate to speculate when we'll end our streak. We have Redford Union and Ypsilanti for the final two games, and they're going to be tough."

Fielder was shoved into the unexpected role of PR (public relations) man after the surprising resignation of head coach Pat Stokes.

"We are looking forward to Friday night's game with Bentley," said

Fielder. "They have had the same problems we have had all year."

Belleville nearly broke its losing string at Allen Park last Friday where the Tigers lost a 16-14 thriller when the Jaguars scored an eight-point in the last quarter for their second league victory.

"We played well enough to win," said Fielder, "and we had a good shot at them, but we let them get away."

Belleville made overtures to score after the opening kickoff, but fumbled its chances away at the 19 after quarterback Tim Ellsworth led a six-play attack that featured Barry Reddick's 28-yard run.

However, the Tigers did get on the board thanks to a Jim Mercurio interception that gave Belleville the ball at the Parkers' 14.

Three plays later Reddick scored on a three-yard, off-tackle play, but the Tigers didn't score the extra point because of a bad snap from center.

Allen Park came right back and marched to the Belleville 23 after the ensuing kickoff, but the Tiger defense getting a boost from linebackers Rick Winekoff and Loren Ormanian held and the Jaguars handed the ball over at the Tiger 21.

Eight plays later Belleville was on the scoreboard again and again it was Reddick's five yard dash across the AP goal line that did it.

Ellsworth elected to go for the two-point conversion and successfully pulled it off on an option.

Ahead 14-0, the proverbial roof began to collapse on the Tigers as Allen Park scored on a 60-yard run by John Shirey with less than three minutes remaining until the intermission. A pass from Larry Yeske to John Hoirnyak accounted for the two point conversion.

Belleville's defenses seemed as fallible as Humpty-Dumpty on the wall as Allen Park worked its way to the Tiger 15 right after the second half kickoff but Belleville managed to put the pieces together and hold on until the last quarter.

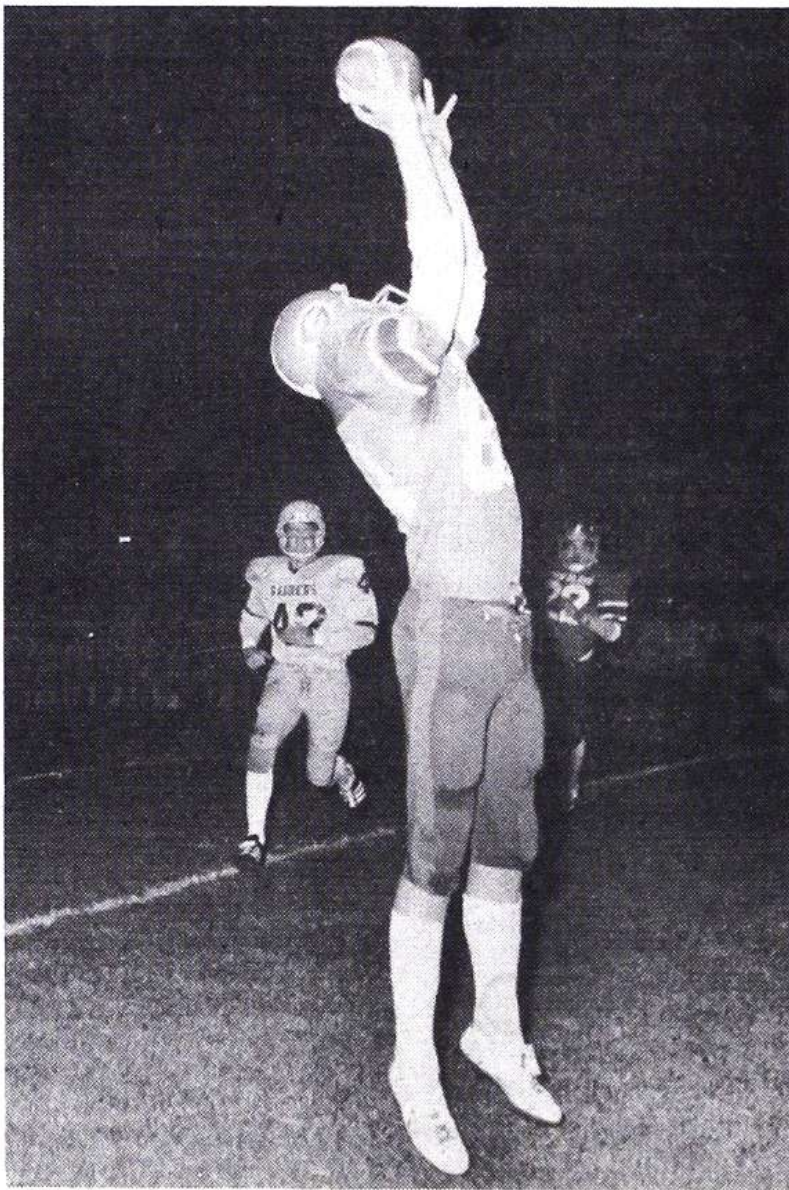

In that period, though, the knell sounded. Yeske teamed up with Mark Angletti on a 35-yard scoring pass which tied the score at 14-all and the same combination gave the Jaguars the two-point conversion which stood up as the difference in the ball game.

"We had our chances to win and didn't and can't be feeling sorry for ourselves," said Fielder. "We have Bentley ahead of us and they're thinking the same thing we are - to end a losing streak and finish out of the cellar in the league."

Injured Brian Brinkerhoff, an All-Area candidate a year ago, saw some spot duty for Belleville on defense but didn't play the second half, while guard Bob Newman is lost to the Tigers because of a pulled groin muscle.

Allen Park had the advantage in first downs 11-9 and in total yardage 283 to 171. The Jaguars also hit on 6 of 15 passes for 84 while none of Ellsworth's eight tosses found the mark.

Reddick did more than his share on offense as the senior runningback rushed for 121 yards in 20 attempts, but the other three ballcarriers split the rest of the 50 yards between them - and that's not much.

How sweet it wasn't

Brad Jennings leaps high to nab this pass from Glenn quarterback Ron Suida, and it appears that everything is sweet - it wasn't. The ball was deflected out of the Rocket receiver's hands into the mitts of a North Farmington defender who intercepted and set up the Raiders' only TD in the "duel of undefeateds". North managed to keep its streak intact, 9-7, while Coach Chuck Gordon's Rockets suffered their first setback of the campaign and lost the handle on the Northwest Suburban Conference championship.

This week's football winners

Apparently Westlanders know their local high school football teams.

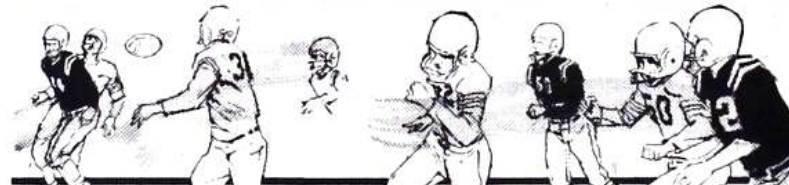

For the second consecutive week a Westlander, Kevin Wilson, won the weekly Associated Newspapers' Football Contest.

Wilson picked 12 of 12 for the top prize money ($25) and beat out Wayne's Gary Mecheta, who was awarded second place ($15) and Jeff Marchand of Westland was third ($10).

The winners can pick up their prize money from the ANP offices located at 35540 Michigan Ave., in Wayne.

Contestants are urged to pick the score and not the total points of the tie-breaker which decides the winner of the contest if two or more contestants have the same number of correct picks. Thank you.

KEN KAESTNER

After destroying Northville, 27-7

Churchill meets 'mystery team,' Mott

Waterford Mott poses an enigma for undefeated Livonia Churchill. Let Churchill Coach Ken Kaestner explain:

"At the beginning of the season," said Kaestner, "many of us figured that Mott would be the team to beat in this league and they're presently 1-5 and have scored only two touchdowns this season."

"We don't know what happened to them, but that's the kind of team that can burn you."

Kaestner's Chargers have a perfect 5-0 record after stunning a highly-touted Northville 27-7 last week and if they can come away Friday night from Waterford with a victory they'll have their third Western Six Conference football championship sewed up.

Kaestner's 1972 and 1975 editions also won titles.

However, a lost to Mott would force the Livonians to hand over a share of the championship to either Northville or Farmington Harrison.

"We are stressing this point to our kids - that we can't afford to look past Mott, which is in my opinion a 'mystery team' capable of beating anyone," Kaestner stressed. "We can't afford to be looking ahead to Livonia Franklin or Stevenson, either."

Churchill got right down to business with Northville and did irreparable damage to the Colts' defenses thanks to the running acuity of halfback Doran Mason, who scored two touchdowns and rushed for 154 yards and the pinpoint passing of quarterback Rick Coppola who completed 10 passes for 92 yards, one a 33-yard touchdown toss to Steve Zaborowski who caught three of the completions.

Mason, who has 751 yards for his efforts this season, scored the initial Churchill TD on a 12-yard run early in the first quarter and Coppola then booted his first of three point-after.

Zaborowski and Coppola teamed up on the 36-yarder in the second quarter and the Chargers widened the margin to 21-0 with Mason's 18 yard jaunt late in the half, but, with three minutes remaining till intermission, Northville countered with what proved to be its lone TD of the game, a 43-yard sprint by Bob Crisan. Russ Gans booted the extra point.

The scoreboard didn't tilt again until the fourth period when a bad snap left Northville stranded on its own one-yard line and on the first play from scrimmage Churchill's Jeff McCarthy plunged into the end zone.

Kaestner lauded his team's performance on defense and singled out Glenn Cahoon, a defensive tackle, and Ken Katschor, a free safety for leading a balanced defensive attack. Walter Taddy got the only interception of the game. That came during a desperation Northville pass.

Westland is home for Spark cage team

The 14 game home schedule will begin Friday evening October 20th at 6:30 p.m. when the "Sparks" host the "Capitol Smokers" out of New York.

The two teams will meet again on Saturday October 21st at 4:00 p.m. The remainder of the home schedule will consist of two game weekend series with the first games scheduled for Saturday evening at 8:00 p.m. and the rematch set for Sunday afternoon at 1:00 p.m.

home games at the Melvin G. Bailey Recreation Center the "Sparks" will claim one of the most accessible and most beautiful home courts in the National Wheelchair Basketball Association which include approximately 125 member teams from coast to coast.

The Detroit Sparks will be shooting for their sixth national championship and some of the teams appearing in Westland will include the Capitol Smokers from New York, Cleveland Comets, Pittsburgh, Toledo Silverstreaks, Indianapolis Mustangs and the Bordenstown Elks.

According to Sports and Spokes, the "Sport Illustrated" of Wheelchair Sports, the "Sparks" are rated third in the national pre-season poll.

The slogan of the Detroit Sparks is "It's your ability, not your disability that counts". Once you see the "Sparks" in action you will see why they have won five national championships.

For ticket and schedule information please contact Westland Parks and Recreation at (722-7620) or coach Bud Rumble of the Sparks at 729-0116.

at the prestigious "Battle of Atlanta" karate tournament in the super lightweight division. The 29-year-old Logan lost the fighting title to South Carolina's Michael Godman.

Wayne Karate Club finds gold in Dexter

Instructors usually take a back seat to their students and watch them develop.

However, that's not the case when it comes to Black Belter Ron Rose of Wayne who competed over the weekend in the 1978 Chung-Do Kwan Medallion Championships held at Dexter High.

Rose, who is the instructor at the Wayne Karate Studio, captured a pair of gold medals, winning both the form and sparring competition for the lightweight division.

Rose's proteges also did well. Greg Pulido won the gold medal in form in the brown belt category, and Mo Pulido took a third place in the junior advance division. Chris Covert strolled off the floor with a third place in the white belt division in forms.

Sparring honors also went to Covert who placed third.

There were at least 15 clubs represented at the tournament and the local club took eight competitors.

At the Lansing tournament, 15-year-old Mo Pulido was runnerup to the national champ in the form division and third places went to Pulido, Jerry Hubert and Tom Ahljian in sparring.

Next stop for Rose's club is the Michigan AAU Karate championship to be staged in Saginaw on Oct. 22.

Glenn breezes past Thurston

Defending champ John Glenn remained in the chase for the Northwest Suburban Conference cross country championship last week by outdistancing Redford Thurston 19-36.

But Coach Jerry Szukaitis and the Rockets, beaten by Livonia Franklin in their first league dual meet of the season, hve to keep their eyes on the Livonians who knocked off North Farmington this week 26-31 to remain perfect.

Glenn will host North on Thursday at 4 p.m. which will bring the league dual meet season to a climax.

"We have to get past Franklin in the league in order to salvage a share of the title," noted Szukaitis who received news that injured runner Cory Gielinski, his No.2 runner will be out for the season.

Gielinski has a stress fracture in the leg and won't return to the team.

"Obviously, when your No.2 man is out, the team will be hurt," said the Glenn mentor. "We're hoping that someone will step in and take over that slot."

Glenn is getting the most out of its premier runner, Jim Kanclerz who again finished first, this time beating the Thurston pack with a respectable time of 16:49 at Cass Benton Park.

Westlander Paul Stephens and Tom Andrews were second and third respectively, while Chuck Honaker was fifth and Tim Unold was eight.

returned it to the 13 with 3:15 left in the first quarter.

On the first play from scrimmage, fullback Jeff Cohen found a huge hole at right tackle and raced virtually untouched into the endzone to make it 6-0 for the visitors. Quinn's extra point attempt failed and Glenn still trailed, 6-0.

Although that turnover was costly for the Rockets, they survived two pass interceptions by Ron Nutter and a fumble, as the Glenn defensive unit was superb. North Farmington also returned a punt 55 yards by Quinn that was nullified by a penalty with 8:09 left in the first quarter.

Glenn got untracked with nine minutes left in the half after punting on a Raider fumble on its own 44-yard-line. Suida ran 11 yards for a first down.

Ruark carried twice for another first down on the Raider 35. On a third-and-six, Suida fired a left-handed bullet pass to end Brad Jennings who speared the aerial for another first down on North's 20-yard-line.

Suida then rifled a second-down pass to flanker Dale Luke on the right sidelines and "Cool Hand" Luke squeezed the precious pigskin to his breast as he raced into the endzone for a 17-yard touchdown.

Then "Hot Foot" DeLuca booted the valuable extra point and the overflow homecoming crowd went absolutely wild.

However, despite Channel 56 television cameras showing the "game of the week" to the metropolitan Detroit area, there was no story book ending. North, with an overflow crowd on its side of the field, managed to kick the second-half field goal to pull out the nail-biting win.

"I'm as proud of my boys as can be," said Glenn Head Coach Chuck Gordon in the quietness of the Rocket locker room after the game. Players, who had played the "game of their lives", peered through reddened, tear-stained eyes as they thought of what might have been.

"Yes, I'd go for the field goal again," Gordon said firmly to another reporter. "These are a class group of guys and we gave it the best shot we could. Remember, North Farmington is rated number four in the state and they played about as evenly as anybody possibly could," Gordon said.

The defeat was the first for Glenn as its record dropped to 5-1 on the season and 2-1 in the Northwest Suburban League.

North, who needs some "help" from other teams if it is to make the state playoffs with its complicated point system, rolled to a 6-0 season mark and 3-0 in the league.

Ron Holland, the Raiders' coach, visited the Glenn locker room after the game and expressed his sincere respect for Gordon, his coaching staff and football team. "Your guys all played a tremendous game — especially Timmy (Ruark) and Rob (Suida)," Holland said.

Gordon congratulated Holland on winning the game and offered Glenn's best wishes as North Farmington seeks its second state championship in eight years.

"We'll just have to see how we respond to this tough loss," added assistant coach Dan Henry. "It's a tough loss, but we must put it in perspective, it's still only a game. I think the kids will bounce back and show they are class quality." Henry added, as Jim Juras and Jeff Mate, Gordon's other assistants, nodded agreement.

For the statistic minded, Glenn and North each had nine first downs, in unofficial totals. In other unofficial figures, Glenn rushed for 95 yards in 31 attempts while North ramblled 159 yards in 38 tries.

Southpaw Suida completed 7 of 13 passes for 76 yards, one touchdown, and three interceptions. Glenn's defense shut off North's passing game almost completely, allowing only two completions in 12 attempts.

In individual duels, Ruark finished with 54 yards in 19 carries, and slotback Kurt Hagemann ran 17 yards in four tries and caught key third-down passes of 22 and 18 yards for first downs.

North's tailback Mike Miller ran 79 yards in 19 carries and fullback Jeff Cohen ramblled 72 yards in nine tries.

From toxic contaminants

DNR wildlife monitoring tests show hunters safe

Results from the Department of Natural Resources wildlife monitoring program show that hunters can go into the field this fall without concern over toxic contaminants in deer, rabbits, pheasants, or any other plant-eating animals.

But the DNR does caution persons against eating raccoons or muskrats taken from near the Pine River in Gratiot and Midland counties, where high levels of PBB are known to have entered the river.

Because of an excessive backlog in the DNR's laboratory, which is used to check for chemical contamination, the department has been unable to complete the wildlife monitoring program begun last year.

So far, the DNR has tested 61 samples of wildlife under the program, according to Tom Rohrer, a biologist in the DNR's Office of Toxic Materials Control. Another 100 samples still remain to be analyzed.

"The analyses of all 161 samples, which were collected this summer and fall, should be completed by January 1, 1979," he says. "We had hoped to complete the wildlife monitoring program and issue a report before the start of hunting season, but other more important testing took priority."

Priority items included samples collected to investigate potential human health problems of immediate concern, such as domestic water supply wells and contaminated fish. Other priority samples were for formal legal action.

"However, what we have found so far should be very good news," Rohrer says. "All plant-eating game animals we have tested—deer, rabbits, pheasants, and others—have all been exceptionally free of toxic chemicals."

Meating eating animals, such as raccoons, are at the top of the food chain and are more likely to accumulate toxic materials in their bodies.

"The same thing happens to game fish," Rohrer explains. "They are tainted by eating smaller fish that eat plankton."

This summer the DNR collected samples of raccoons and muskrats living near the Pine River in Gratiot County.

"We knew that if PBB would show up in any game animal, it would probably be these," Rohrer says.

The DNR tested five raccoons from Gratiot County and one muskrat. All had fairly high levels of PBB.

Levels of the toxic chemical ranged from 430 parts per billion in the muskrat to 1,600 parts per billion in a raccoon. No food regulations are in force for raccoons or muskrats, but the state's tolerance level for PBB in dairy cattle is 20 parts per billion. Federal law allows up to 300 parts per billion in beef and poultry.

The DNR is also testing animals and fish for dozens of other kinds of pesticides and chemicals.

"Besides PBB, we are also testing for PCB, chlorinated hydrocarbon pesticides such as DDT and DDE, and heavy metals," he says.

Heavy metals have been used in some forms of pesticides in the past. Those metals tested for include: cadmium, chromium, copper, lead, zinc, arsenic, selenium, mercury, and nickel, some of which are toxic in low concentrations to plant and animal life.

"No environmentally significant heavy metals have been found, other than those small levels occurring naturally, such as copper and zinc, which are trace element nutrients," he says. "We are even doing organic scans of the samples for unknown compounds with properties similar to PBB or PCB and have found none."

The DNR hopes to continue the wildlife monitoring program in years to come because results from future testing may give a first indication of toxic material in the environment.

Of the 61 animals tested so far, two have come from Cheboygan County, 14 from Gratiot County, 12 from Kalkaska County, 19 from Livingston County, eight from Newaygo County, one from Oceana County, three from Otsego County, and two from Schoolcraft County.

In addition to the present monitoring program, the DNR last year tested 100 samples of venison submitted by deer hunters from across the state.

"The results of that testing indicate that there is no PBB problem in the Michigan deer herd," Rohrer says.

as the losers had the edge in first downs 12-9 and rushing yardage 190 to 160, but that one Central TD aerial (60-yards) and four Franklin fumbles hurt the Livonians.

Franklin was slapped with 29 yards for five infractions of the rules and Central paid 45 yards for six penalties.

Cifor had a 115-yard in 17 carries day and McCarthy produced an additional 58 yards in 19 tries.

"We're in the same position as we were last year when we lost two in a row and met Glenn," added Vigna.
